6 MR. LOCKARD: Good morning.

7 THE COURT: Good morning.

8 MR. SCHULTE: I shall be appearing pro se.

~~TOP SECRET~~

1 THE COURT: With that, let me deal with the two open 2 items from the omnibus motion, they are the motion for 3 disclosure of additional information or materials relating to 4 the polygraph exam and materials relating -- actually, I guess 5 there are three issues, materials relating to the CIA chats and 6 e-mail metadata and then the forensic crime scene which I will 7 get to later.

8 With respect to the polygraph, the government filed a 9 classified letter [REDACTED]

10 [REDACTED] I guess what I am not clear on 11 is what marginal value any of those materials have beyond the 12 transcript that was already disclosed and, indeed, how this 13 could be used at all except for Mr. Schulte to testify, if he 14 were to testify, that he willingly took a polygraph and had no 15 qualms about doing so, for which the materials themselves 16 wouldn't be necessary.

17 So, Mr. Schulte, do you want to?

18 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. So the polygraph --

19 THE COURT: Just keep your voice up.

20 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. Has the government -- I haven't 21 received the response so is that something that the government 22 has?

23 THE COURT: Do you have a copy of it Mr. Denton.

24 MR. DENTON: No, your Honor; and we actually believe 25 it is properly submitted ex parte. The details about what

XM535schC

1 specific information is retained about polygraph is -- we have 2 been advised -- considered also quite sensitive and so that's 3 the reason why we made the submission ex parte.

4 THE COURT: I overlooked that. OK. And can you
5 elaborate on that to the extent that you can in this setting, 6 why Mr. Schulte can't be privy to what's in this?

7 MR. DENTON: Again, your Honor, I think my 8 understanding, as it has been conveyed to us, is that what 9 information is collected, how it's documented, how polygraph 10 decisions are made are themselves closely guarded things that 11 are not known to CIA employees for precisely the reason that 12 they do not have the ability to game the system or otherwise be 13 aware of what information goes into the polygraph 14 decision-making process. So, given that, we do not think that 15 the information is relevant. The fact of its existence is also 16 not relevant to the defendant.

17 THE COURT: So, Mr. Denton, with all due respect, I am 18 looking at the letter and it's described at a level of 19 generality that I find it very hard to understand what would be 20 compromised by sharing it with Mr. Schulte.

21 MR. DENTON: I think, your Honor, there are some parts 22 of it that we can describe and I think perhaps just sort of an 23 additional level of generality to say that [REDACTED] 24 [REDACTED] and then associated 25 documentation, that much I think we can say. I'm a little bit

XM535schC

1 taking my own marching orders here, your Honor, in terms of 2 what is considered sensitive and what is not, and I'm trying to 3 be careful about it. So I understand the desire to have a 4 reasonable discussion about this, I'm just trying to be careful 5 myself as well.

6 THE COURT: OK.

7 Mr. Schulte?

8 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. As an initial matter, I don't 9 think that's the proper standard for determining whether it 10 should be produced to me, and the precautions that they're 11 saying there is really no difference between, you know, the 12 results from this polygraph and, say, other polygraphs that are 13 presented. So I really think in order for me to answer the -- 14 in order for me to answer the Court, I really need access to 15 the letter to be able to respond.

16 Standby counsel notes that also, just because he has 17 marching orders from the CIA, that's not the standard. As the 18 Court noted, Why? What is the reason for not disclosing that 19 information to me so that I can properly present an argument
20 and rebut what the government is arguing. Your rules require 21 them to at least ask permission before filing the ex parte 22 submission which it doesn't appear that they've done.

23 THE COURT: Well, in fairness, it is labeled ex parte, 24 I just frankly overlooked that in part because I didn't see 25 anything in here that would suggest that it should be ex parte

XM535schC

1 but, having said that and putting the procedural question aside
2 of whether it should or shouldn't be ex parte, I mean,
3 Mr. Denton has disclosed that [REDACTED]
4 [REDACTED] of 5 certain things. The question is what possible use you could 6 make of any of that since the -- again, I think the only 7 admissible information or facts here would be that you took -- 8 you willingly took the polygraph and had no qualms about doing 9 so. It was never adjudicated, so in that respect there is no 10 results to be admitted and, in that event, they don't have any 11 results in their possession.

12 So the question -- and I recognize that you are 13 shooting a little bit in the dark given that are you not privy 14 to the particulars although, candidly, I am not privy to much 15 of the particulars either having read the letter -- is what use 16 or relevance any of that has beyond the transcript that's 17 already in your possession.

18 MR. SCHULTE: So there is three or four issues that I
19 initially wrote regarding the polygraph. I think first is it 20 is proper Rule 16 because it is a medical test so that falls 21 under the Rule 16 information.

22 The second big point I made in my argument was the 23 polygrapher informed me specifically that the polygraph results 24 were in and the adjudication is simply for the re-investigation 25 so there should at least be some kind of evidentiary hearing or

XM535schC

1 some way for me to get this information from the polygrapher
2 because my understanding, and from my understanding for [REDACTED]

3 [REDACTED]
4 [REDACTED] It is
5 a common occurrence; people fail the polygraph, they have to 6 retake it [REDACTED] So in my experience and with 7 other CIA employees, [REDACTED]

8 [REDACTED] So that did
9 not happen. The polygrapher told me I passed the polygraph [REDACTED] 10 [REDACTED] and what the 11 government keeps referring to as adjudication is what they 12 refer to as the entire investigation. So the entire 13 investigation was never adjudicated so they have multiple 14 investigations, the polygraph is just one small point of that.
15 So my understanding is the polygraph results came in, I passed 16 the polygraph, but they did not finish the entire 17 re-investigation.

18 So I believe the polygraph results would be admissible 19 for several reasons. The first is the biggest reason is that 20 this polygraph is significantly different from a typical 21 polygraph and I believe that the improvement the CIA has made 22 would show that this one would be admissible in Court, and the 23 second thing is this is not a typical situation. The reason 24 polygraphs typically aren't admissible is because you are 25 taking it specifically for the Court -- for the proceedings,

XM535schC

1 right, criminal proceedings, or you hire your own. This was 2 not done regarding, with respect to any criminal proceedings, 3 this was done with regard to the CIA and the CIA's trust in me.
4 So the results from that polygraph basically say that the CIA's
5 polygraph that they used to protect National Defense 6 Information, National Security Information, that I passed this 7 polygraph I believe would be admissible to that fact, the fact
8 that the CIA would, based on their polygraph results, trust me 9 and that they would acknowledge I did not, you know, commit any 10 security violations during this time.

11 THE COURT: Two responses.

12 First, under Rule 16 it is not sufficient or enough 13 that it is just a test conducted, it also has to be material in 14 preparing the defense or the government intends to use the item 15 in its case-in-chief. Obviously the government doesn't intend 16 to use any of these items and the question I had for you is why 17 is this material and I'm not at the moment persuaded that you 18 have made that case. I'm not aware of any authority that 19 differentiates a polygraph for purposes of a criminal case or 20 some other purpose and its admissibility, nor have you cited 21 any case that supports that proposition.

22 Be that as it may, let me just confirm with 23 Mr. Denton, I don't know if adjudication is a technical term 24 here or if there is some results that are different than 25 adjudication that have not been disclosed to Mr. Schulte that

1 maybe he is just laboring under a misimpression that there are 2 results that could be shared separate and apart from a, quote 3 unquote, adjudication. But can you just clarify, are there any 4 results of the polygraph test?

5 MR. DENTON: No, your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Great. So then I think this issue is put 7 to rest. You have the transcript. Again, I think at most, as 8 far as I can see, the only use that you could make of any of 9 this is that you took the polygraph and had no qualms about 10 doing so. I don't think your own statements to the polygraph 11 examiner -- hearsay -- is offered by you and there are no 12 results so we don't need to adjudicate or litigate the 13 admissibility of results so the remaining information, I just 14 don't see how it's material let alone admissible and, given 15 that, the motion is denied.

16 The second issue is the metadata issue that the 17 government responded and did cc Mr. Schulte so I assume you 18 have a copy of that Mr. Schulte, is the government's letter of 19 April 29th?

20 MR. SCHULTE: That's correct.

21 THE COURT: So do you wish to respond, say anything on 22 this score? The government's representation is that you have 23 the metadata for all of the communications that have been 24 deemed relevant and that the metadata wouldn't contain the 25 sorts of information that you indicated you needed it for,

MR. SCHULTE: So what the government provided to us were simply, like, PDFs, they're PDFs of the e-mails and messages so they're not in the original format so that is what I was requesting, is that Sametime and Outlook obviously have their own format for the messages so they should pull those out and actually provide them in the original format because there is metadata associated with those that are relevant, there is just no reason to simply print these as PDFs provided to me and regarding the relevant e-mails and Sametime messages, there is no reason that they can't pull the relevant e-mails and basically provide them in the original format.

THE COURT: So the last sentence of the second paragraph states the e-mails and Sametime messages already produced to the defendant in classified discovery contain all available metadata associated with those e-mails and messages.

MR. SCHULTE: Yeah, that's not correct. Yeah, because they're only provided in PDF form, they're not provided with the original metadata. PDFs don't -- they converted the file, they took the e-mails and messages and they went to print and they printed them as PDFs and they presented a PDF to us so they don't contain the metadata from the original encoding of the messages.

THE COURT: Mr. Denton?

~~TOP SECRET~~

1 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, our understanding, based on 2 our communications with the people responsible for storing 3 this, is that that header information that is included in each 4 of the messages is all the metadata that there is, that there 5 isn't something else. It is true that they were produced in 6 PDF format and not a PST or something like that but, again, 7 like I said, we specifically asked about whether there would be 8 any other metadata and we were told all that there is are the 9 headers.

10 MR. SCHULTE: The big question is or the major point 11 here is that that is not in the original format and I don't 12 believe, from my experience with the PST and Sametime files 13 that they do contain additional data associated with those 14 files but, regardless, they should at least provide the 15 original data. They have it so what is the reason that they 16 cannot simply produce the original in the original format to 17 me?

18 THE COURT: So Mr. Denton, that was the question I was 19 going to ask; that if the PDF contains all of the available 20 metadata, why can't the original with the actual metadata, 21 embedded within it, whatever that may mean, why can't that be 22 produced? In other words -- correct me if I misunderstand --
23 but my understanding is that Mr. Schulte has been given, quote 24 unquote, all relevant communications as well as all of his own 25 communications, so the only thing so which he is not privy are

1 communications from others to him which Judge Crotty previously 2 blessed as appropriate and the question here is the metadata
3 and there is metadata that -- communications that were already 4 disclosed. Your position is that he has that, albeit in PDF
5 form, and the metadata of the communications that he is not 6 privy to. Focusing on the former, that is the things that have 7 already been disclosed to him, if he already has that metadata, 8 albeit in printed format, what's the harm giving it to him in 9 the original format?

10 MR. DENTON: I think there is two different 11 categories, your Honor.

12 With respect to chat messages, it's literally not 13 possible to give it to him in the original format. [REDACTED]

14 [REDACTED]
15 [REDACTED]
16 [REDACTED]
17 [REDACTED]
18 [REDACTED]

19 With respect to the e-mails, I think that is possible.
20 It is likely to be a pretty significant undertaking, mostly 21 because I know that the triage process of identifying his 22 e-mails and the relevant e-mails was done after they had 23 already been exported to PDF so it wasn't like this was done in 24 a PST that is sitting there that we can hand over, we have to 25 go back to an e-mail pull to sort of re-cull it down to what's

1 already been produced. I don't think that would be a problem
2 from a sensitivity perspective but I think here, too, we then 3 get to a question of relevance and whether this is something 4 that is appropriate to require the government to do under Rule 5 16. He has the content of his statements, those are all 6 reflected in the e-mails. It is not entirely clear what 7 relevance some other form of metadata has. Like I said, I'm 8 not saying that this is a particularly sensitive thing but I do 9 think it would be a significant amount of work to go back to at 10 this stage.

11 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte?

12 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. This is not something new, we have 13 been asking for this for a long time, and basically the 14 original format is how the data should have been provided to 15 begin with so the fact that the government, you know, provided 16 it in a different format to begin with, the government should 17 have provided it in the original format from the beginning.

18 THE COURT: What difference does it make to you? If 19 you have the information and you can make use of the 20 information, what could you do with the original format that 21 you can't do with what you have been given?

22 MR. SCHULTE: Like, I mean, the biggest issue is we 23 are coming back to the metadata. I know the government keeps 24 saying that there is no additional metadata in it but from my 25 experience with the PST Outlook file is it does contain this

1 information. I don't know if you have seen when you use
2 Outlook, it tells you whether or not a message has been read or 3 not. That data is being stored somewhere. So it is the same 4 with other features and other things that were enabled on my 5 Outlook inbox. The fact that you can do things, the features 6 that are enabled, tells you that that data is being stored.
7 Where is that data being stored? It is being stored as 8 metadata as part of the e-mail. So I don't know if the Court
9 wants me to get an expert to testify about how Outlook works
10 and that this metadata exists but that's basically what it 11 comes down to.

12 THE COURT: I'm not suggesting that you need to do 13 that but I think you do need to demonstrate to me that there is 14 some additional information or use that you can make of the 15 original format metadata that you can't make of the metadata
16 that the government says it has provided to you and I have no 17 basis to second guess Mr. Denton's representation that that 18 metadata is the entirety of the metadata associated with each 19 of those messages. So if you have a basis to tell me 20 otherwise, short of your -- quote unquote -- understanding 21 whether it is in the form of affidavit or otherwise I will 22 certainly revisit it. But, unless you can make a detailed 23 showing that there is some information that the government 24 should have in its possession that's not disclosed and/or some 25 reason the original format would be usable by you as the

1 information that has been provided is not, I don't think there
2 is any basis to compel the government to produce anything else.

3 MR. SCHULTE: OK.

4 THE COURT: So for that reason it is denied without 5 prejudice to renewal, based on one or the other of those 6 showings and we will take it from there.

7 To the extent that the request is for the 8 communications that Judge Crotty had previously blessed 9 non-disclosure of, namely the -- quote unquote -- non-relevant 10 communications, I see no basis to revisit that based on the 11 government's representation that the metadata would reveal or 12 contain the information of the sort that Mr. Schulte says he 13 needs it for namely when he accessed the system, when things 14 were read and on and so forth.

15 So, for that reason, I think to the extent that 16 Mr. Schulte needs it, it is the relevant communications, those 17 have been provided based on the government's representation, 18 the metadata has also been provided, and unless Mr. Schulte can 19 demonstrate in one of the ways I have described a need for 20 anything beyond what he already has, I don't see any basis to 21 order the government to do anything further.

22 With that, again, I am tabling the forensic crime 23 scene issues for the moment, we will circle back to that at the 24 end I think. Let's turn to the Section 6 issues.

25 For starters, with one exception to which I am going

1 to reserve judgment, I will adopt all of Judge Crotty's prior 2 Section 6 rulings. That decision is not based solely on 3 adherence of the law of the case. So that certainly does 4 provide a basis to do so. The doctrine, "does not constitute a 5 limitation on the Court's power, but merely expresses the 6 general practice of reopening what has been decided." United 7 States v. Birney, 686 F.2d 102, 107 (2d Cir. 1982). Again, the 8 law of the case certainly looms large here, but separate and 9 apart from that, after reviewing the prior rulings in detail, I 10 conclude that they were the product of a thorough and careful 11 CIPA process and that Mr. Schulte -- again, with one exception 12 that I will mention in a moment -- has not only provided no 13 basis to revisit them but has not even argued that they should 14 be revisited in anything other than a conclusory fashion. The 15 one exception is Judge Crotty's ruling regarding the witness
16 security measures to be used at trial. I think that's Docket 17 no. 293 and see also Docket no. 260 and 263. I have already 18 issued an order on that.

19 The bottom line is I think the government needs to 20 make some additional showing with respect to the need for those 21 measures today as opposed to two-plus years ago, and I also 22 think that the press and the public need to be given an 23 opportunity to weigh in on that. So, on those issues, I will 24 reserve judgment. Again, that's really the only prior ruling, 25 Section 6 ruling of Judge Crotty's that Mr. Schulte takes any

XM535schC

1 particular issue with and I will reserve judgment, pending the 2 government's additional submission on that and hearing from 3 members of the public or press at the May 18 conference. So 4 with that one exception, all of his prior rulings are adopted.

5 Turning to the new CIPA issues.

6 MR. SCHULTE: Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: Yes.

8 MR. SCHULTE: One minor thing on that. Previously 9 there were a couple things that were argued that I brought 10 today to bring up with the Court that wasn't discussed before; 11 one of them is the Michael memo, and the other I did mention in 12 the CIPA 6 was the audio and video recordings. So I don't 13 know -- those are the only two specifics that I wanted to bring 14 up to the Court so I don't know what the procedure is for those 15 documents.

16 THE COURT: So this is the first I am hearing of the 17 Michael memo and in that sense I don't have any idea what you 18 are talking about. The audio recordings are on my agenda of 19 items to address so I will give you an opportunity to be heard 20 on that. There, too, I will confess I don't quite understand 21 what is at issue or what we are talking about but why don't we 22 turn to that in due course and I will give you an opportunity 23 to be heard. All right?

24 MR. SCHULTE: OK.

25 THE COURT: Turning to the new CIPA issues that were

XM535schC

1 framed by the Section 6 briefing and Mr. Schulte's Section 5
2 notices, I guess there are several sort of legal issues looming 3 here that I think require discussion more than, and in that 4 sense, candidly, it is not clear to me we couldn't have done
5 this in open session but I think out of an abundance of caution
6 it makes sense we do it here so we can speak freely.

7 One issue seems to be -- I think we have now squarely 8 joined issue on where there is a prior public disclosure of 9 potentially classified or closely-held information, whether 10 that means that it's no longer national defense information. I 11 agree with the government in one respect which is that 12 Mr. Schulte is not going to be allowed to argue to the jury 13 that it would violate his First Amendment rights to convict him 14 of the offense. He is not going to be permitted to argue to 15 the jury that they should be scared about their own First 16 Amendment rights if he can be convicted of this, you know, then 17 the First Amendment is implicated or what have you. Those are 18 not proper arguments to be made to the jury. Mr. Schulte 19 previously moved to dismiss the count on the grounds that it 20 violated the First Amendment. I denied that as applied to him, 21 I adhere to that ruling, I see no basis to revisit it and, in 22 any event, that's not an issue for the jury, that's an issue 23 for me.

24 That being said, I don't think the government directly 25 responds to what I understand the heart of Mr. Schulte's

XM535schC

1 argument is, which is not so much the constitutional argument
2 that it violates the First Amendment as an argument about an 3 element of the offense or multiple elements of the offense.
4 That is to say, I take it the government does not dispute that 5 one of the elements of the offense that is charged is that it 6 has to prove that the information at issue is, quote unquote, 7 National Defense Information. Is that correct?

8 MR. DENTON: Of course, your Honor.

9 THE COURT: So what I understand the argument really 10 is, is that by virtue of the fact that it was already public 11 and perhaps even confirmed to be the CIA information by the 12 government -- and that's one question I have here -- that it
13 cannot be National Defense Information because it was public.
14 Secondly, and we will get to this, there is an argument that 15 either it was National Defense Information or not, that to the 16 extent that the government has to prove some measure of intent
17 or willfulness, that Mr. Schulte's -- I will put it this way 18 although I don't think he put it this way -- that Mr. Schulte 19 harbored a good faith belief that the information was not 20 National Defense Information because it was previously public 21 or otherwise, then that would be essentially a complete defense 22 to the charge.

23 That is sort of what I understand to be the heart of 24 his argument which I think is different from the way the 25 government has characterized it and it seems to me that is a

1 fair argument -- that is to say, well, again, two separate 2 issues: One, National Defense Information; and two, what 3 Mr. Schulte's state of mind is with respect to that issue and 4 let's take those up separately.

5 The is it National Defense Information front, I guess 6 one factual question I have is at any point between the initial 7 leak, that is to say publication by Wikileaks and the 8 disclosure underlying the MCC charges, was it confirmed by the 9 government that the information on Wikileaks was in fact 10 government information, CIA information, National Defense 11 Information? Relatedly, what steps did the government take to 12 essentially keep that information closely held given that it 13 had been revealed?

14 MR. DENTON: So to take those in two steps, your 15 Honor: First, no, [REDACTED]

19 [REDACTED]

5 THE COURT: So, Mr. Schulte, at page 5 your brief you 6 state: The CIA and the government publicly acknowledge the 7 Vault 7 information derives from the CIA which constitutes 8 disclosure.

9 What is the basis for that assertion?

10 MR. SCHULTE: That's correct.

11 So, I have here press releases from the Department of 12 Justice that I can provide to the government and to the Court 13 but the government's press release and indictment of me is a 14 public acknowledgment that the material belonged to the CIA.
15 So the question before the government wasn't does the 16 government still consider this classified, it is has the 17 government acknowledged that this belongs to the CIA. And the 18 government has acknowledged it belongs to the CIA, it was in 19 the press release and they indicted me for the crime saying 20 this material belonged to CIA and I stole it from the CIA.
21 So those two things happened before the MCC superseding 22 indictment.

23 THE COURT: Can you give my deputy a copy of whatever 24 the press release may be and provide it to the government as 25 well?

~~TOP SECRET~~

1 MR. SCHULTE: I also have -- so, in addition to the 2 government's allegations that the government continued to keep 3 the information protected or secret, I have a series of five or 4 six articles where various entities from the New York Times
5 published about this information. The government did not 6 request the New York Times to take the article down or return 7 the information. They did not indict these people for 8 basically transmitting this information so I believe all of 9 this shows that the government did not do everything that they 10 could to keep the information secret. All these people are 11 discussing it, it is circulating through the Internet, and then 12 they indict me for it and no one else and they're not asking 13 these organizations to return the material. I think that's 14 proof that the information is not closely held by the 15 government.

16 THE COURT: Let's take this in turn.

17 Mr. Denton, I guess the question arises, Is this case 18 not a confirmation of some sort that the information is 19 government information to the extent that the premise is that 20 it is National Defense Information and it follows that it came 21 from the government? Is that not some form of confirmation 22 that would change the analysis here?

23 MR. DENTON: So, your Honor, [REDACTED]

24 [REDACTED]

25 [REDACTED] but if the Court looks at the difference

XM535schC

1 between the S2 indictment -- or really the S1 indictment is the 2 relevant one here, the first one that included the espionage
3 charges, and the S3 that post-dated the trial, the S1 and even 4 the press release are abstract and don't acknowledge what the 5 nature of the information was, what particular information was 6 at issue. There is a reason for that. [REDACTED]

7 [REDACTED] The 8 fact that that information came from particular components at 9 the CIA was not otherwise publicly acknowledged by the 10 government until the trial in the last case.

11 THE COURT: And trial in the last case post-dates the 12 MCC?

13 MR. DENTON: Yes.

14 MR. SCHULTE: This press release on June 18, 2018
15 clearly says: Joshua Adam Schulte charged with the 16 unauthorized disclosure of classified information and other 17 offenses relating to the theft of classified material from the 18 Central Intelligence Agency. That, in and of itself, is a 19 confirmation that the materials derived from the CIA and the 20 government believed that it was classified information, so.

21 THE COURT: But I think Mr. Denton's point is, number 22 one, it doesn't actually specify what the material was, it just 23 charges that you leaked National Defense Information; and 24 number two, I mean, let's say there is a universe of materials
25 that is published on Wikileaks and you are charged with a leak

XM535schC

1 in connection with it. It doesn't necessarily mean that 2 everything on there is classified or that the government will 3 confirm that all of it came from the CIA but unless it 4 specifies and confirms that a particular thing came from the 5 CIA or the government, how is it confirming the fact of -- how 6 is it confirming?

7 MR. SCHULTE: It is simply confirming that Wikileaks
8 didn't publish anything except for the Vault 7 [REDACTED]
9 information that it says came from the CIA. So, by indicting
10 me -- and it is not just this, I mean, there is court 11 appearances, public court appearances where the government 12 recognizes this Vault 7, [REDACTED] from Wikileaks that I can pull 13 up as well. It is not just this. From the beginning up until 14 the MCC counts it has been publicly acknowledged that this 15 is -- the Vault 7, [REDACTED] Wikileaks disclosures are from the 16 CIA. I can pull additional court appearances or documents from 17 the government if the Court is not persuaded by this 18 information.

19 THE COURT: Is there anything prior to the first trial 20 where the government specifically confirmed that some 21 particular information or document on Wikileaks came from the 22 CIA, from the government, or are you relying solely on the fact 23 that the indictment and the charge that you were charged with 24 leaking National Defense Information?

25 MR. SCHULTE: No, there were -- like I said, the

XM535schC

1 government -- they didn't acknowledge any specific document
2 except by saying the Vault 7, [REDACTED] Wikileaks disclosure in 3 general. They charged me with those. They specifically said
4 that the charges are related to the Wikileaks Vault 7, [REDACTED]
5 disclosure, so therefore referring to all of this stuffs
6 Wikileaks posted involving Vault 7 [REDACTED].

7 They also -- my previous lawyer, they informed him,
8 because he wasn't cleared at the time, he didn't have a 9 security clearance -- that he was informed of it. Other 10 public -- there has been other public acknowledgments that this 11 material, Vault 7 [REDACTED] material from Wikileaks is CIA 12 information. I can pull other transcripts. I can have my 13 previous uncleared lawyers submit uncleared affidavits. There 14 is a wealth of information showing that the government
15 acknowledged that this information came from the CIA.

16 THE COURT: Well, I guess to me there is distinction
17 saying that you are charged with the Vault 7 [REDACTED] 18 information and specific confirmation that a particular 19 document or item of information came from the CIA and qualifies 20 as National Defense Information. If the government hasn't 21 officially confirmed that, I mean, I think the government is 22 essentially resting on the proposition that unless there is an 23 official confirmation out there, [REDACTED]

And that's different than saying, by virtue of the leak that you were involved in leaking National Defense Information without specifying what in the Vault 7 and [REDACTED] disclosures or publication is, in fact, the National Defense Information.

MR. SCHULTE: Well, my position is that they can't say that the Vault 7, [REDACTED] disclosures are from the CIA and then also say, well, we are not confirming which specific documents are [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

THE COURT: But let's say, just as a hypothetical, let's say that the alphabet is classified information. OK? Or let me put it differently. Let's say that several letters in the alphabet are classified and Wikileaks publishes the entirety of the alphabet and the government charges somebody with leaking that information to Wikileaks and saying that they compromised -- they shared, disclosed National Defense Information but doesn't specify which of the letters in the alphabet that Wikileaks published is in fact the National Defense Information. Presumably they have to to the grand jury that returned the indictment, but they don't confirm to the public. They simply confirm to the public that in connection with the alphabet leak disclosure, that contained National Defense Information. If they don't confirm which of the letters of the alphabet are classified, they're not actually confirming -- that, yes, they're confirming at some level of generality that something in there is ass classified, closely-held National Defense Information, CIA information, whatever the case may be, but unless they specify which of the letters they're talking about, they're not actually officially confirming to the world at large what portions of the alphabet are actually legitimate and classified information.

MR. SCHULTE: I think there is two points to that. The first is the analogy of all the letters doesn't come into

1 play because there is no information that the entire Vault 7 2 [REDACTED] is derived from a single source of information. Right?
3 So it is not really -- it is more like, OK, letters Y and Z, so 4 there is only two things that Wikileaks releases, there is not 5 really -- there is no way to get down to specifics and say -- 6 there is basically no way for the government to say this 7 specific page is not CIA material [REDACTED]

8 [REDACTED]
9 [REDACTED]
10 The other thing is even by disclosing it to a grand 11 jury who are uncleared, I think that is also a disclosure 12 anyway. You know, these people are not cleared and you are 13 telling them that this information comes from the CIA. That 14 also constitutes disclosure anyway. But, like I said, the big 15 picture, the most important thing is the Vault 7 documents,

16 [REDACTED]
17 [REDACTED]
18 [REDACTED]
19 [REDACTED]
20 [REDACTED]
21 [REDACTED]

22 THE COURT: So I have not reviewed the grand jury
23 minutes so I don't know the way it was presented but let me 24 modify my statement. I would guess that an agent can simply 25 testify and say, I have reviewed these leaks and they contain

1 information that was closely held by the CIA and so on and so 2 forth, and that would probably suffice for a finding of 3 probable cause. Whether it suffices at trial is a different
4 question. In that sense, I'm not presuming that the disclosure 5 was made to an uncleared grand juror.

6 But, Mr. Denton, do you wish to respond to 7 Mr. Schulte?

8 MR. DENTON: So, first of all, your Honor, with 9 respect to the sort of the point that they [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

10 [REDACTED]
11 [REDACTED]
12 [REDACTED]
13 [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]
15 [REDACTED]
16 [REDACTED]
17 [REDACTED]
18 [REDACTED]

19 I do want to be clear, with respect to the timing on 20 some of the disclosures, there was additional information 21 beyond what was in the affidavit that was declassified and 22 disclosed in connection with some of the litigation in the 23 summer of 2019 with respect to the motion to suppress. That 24 all post-dates the MCC conduct which ended in October of 2018 25 as charged in the indictment.

XM535schC

1 I think, also, CIPA contemplates expressly this sort 2 of process that took place here in which the government is 3 often forced to charge these things in generality and then is 4 required to provide specific classified notice of the 5 classified information at issue under Section 10, and it is the 6 sort of vagueness of the first indictment, which is necessary 7 to sort of preserve the refusal to confirm or deny, that is why
8 the government provided detailed Section 10 notice, provided a 9 lengthy response to the defendant's demand for a bill of 10 particulars. It was necessary to provide that information to 11 him because the indictment, frankly didn't, because it was not 12 a public acknowledgment that the government was prepared to 13 make at that time.

14 THE COURT: Let me ask you, Mr. Denton, the 15 instructions on this that Judge Crotty gave at the first trial, 16 did you take issue with those? Do you think those correctly 17 state the law?

18 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor. With respect to the 19 National Defense Information, we do.

20 THE COURT: Can we drill down on what they mean? So, 21 to the extent relevant, the instructions -- and I think these 22 are consistent with Squillacote, the Fourth Circuit case, I 23 think would you agree that where information has been made 24 public by the United States government is found in sources 25 lawfully available to the general public is not closely held,

1 correct?

2 MR. DENTON: Obviously.

3 THE COURT: And your position is that it has not been 4 made public by the United States government, it is it was made 5 public unlawfully by someone who leaked it.

6 MR. DENTON: That's correct; despite efforts by the 7 government to safeguard it.

8 THE COURT: OK. Similarly, where sources of 9 information are lawfully available to the public at the time of 10 the claimed violation and the United States government has made 11 no effort to guard such information, the information itself is 12 not closely held.

13 Again, you agree with that proposition?

14 MR. DENTON: Yes.

15 THE COURT: And your position here is that it both was 16 not lawfully available to the public at the time of the MCC
17 leak and the government was taking -- making effort to guard 18 the information? What's the precise argument?

19 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor. So it is both.

20 I think there is a temporal question with respect to 21 the government's efforts to safeguard it that is a little bit 22 opaque. We are all here laboring with relatively little case 23 law and what constitutes "closely held" but I think there is 24 two relevant points. The first is what did the government do 25 to safeguard the information before it became public in any

1 way, this is sort of the Heine scenario in which the government
2 just simply didn't do anything to stop anybody from publishing 3 the information.

4 THE COURT: Heine is an easy case. I think 5 Squillacote, frankly, is not that hard a case. I think the 6 question here is at the time of the MCC leaks where the 7 information is already out there, [REDACTED]

8 [REDACTED]
9 [REDACTED], what impact does that have on the MCC leak charges. And I 10 think that's actually a complicated question, and if the 11 government does confirm at some point between the initial leak
12 and the MCC leak that this is government information, then I 13 think there is reasonable argument that this case is very 14 different than Squillacote.

15 MR. DENTON: I think that's true, your Honor and part 16 of the reason for that that we talked about in our reply is if 17 that had been the case, that would have relieved the defendant 18 of his obligations under the secrecy agreement. If the 19 publication is acknowledged, if the discussion of this is 20 authorized by the U.S. government, then he's not bound by the 21 provisions of his secrecy agreement that prevent him from 22 discussing any classified information unless authorized.

23 THE COURT: But let me press you on that because, as 24 that suggests, that something is National Defense Information 25 for Mr. Schulte, that would not be National Defense Information

1 for the New York Times and how can that be the case? In other 2 words, the definition of National Defense Information would 3 seem to be independent of who the leaker is. It is either 4 National Defense Information or it is not and it can't turn on 5 the obligations or lack thereof of the person who is linked to 6 that.

7 MR. DENTON: So, I recognize the intuitive appeal of 8 that, your Honor. I think Rosen sort of went the opposite 9 direction. Rosen, in that case in adopting a very strict 10 standard for whether information had been closely held or was 11 damaging to the national security, talked about how the First 12 Amendment interests that animate these limiting principles are 13 different based on the relationship of the person to the 14 government. Like I said, I'm not saying that I dispute the 15 obvious logic of the Court's point, that it is either NDI or it 16 isn't regardless of who is talking about it.

17 THE COURT: I think that's a different question from 18 whether the prosecution would violate the First Amendment.
19 That's where I think the import of Mr. Schulte's obligations 20 come in. As applied to Mr. Schulte, I don't think there is any 21 conceivable First Amendment argument because he did have 22 independent obligations that the New York Times, for example, 23 would not have. But that is a different question, meaning 24 whether it is NDI or not NDI, and in that instance it doesn't 25 seem that that would turn on who the person is. I think that

1 gets to the second point that Mr. Schulte raised earlier which 2 is 2017 Wikileaks publishes this information. The New York 3 Times publishes articles about it; Mr. Schulte writes an 4 article, if we can call it that, about it. How can it be that 5 it is National Defense Information for Mr. Schulte's purposes
6 but not National Defense Information for the New York Times' 7 purposes?

8 MR. DENTON: So, I think, your Honor, again, this is 9 where we sort of have to unpack the principles.

10 What the statute requires the government to prove is 11 that the information is related to the national defense in the 12 broad connotation of anything to do with national preparedness, 13 etc., etc., all of those criteria that are set out there. The 14 limiting principles that are adopted like the requirement that 15 the information be closely held do derive from those First 16 Amendment concerns about the statute. And so, in that sense, 17 we are not talking about purely a matter of statutory 18 interpretation -- What does material relating to the national 19 defense mean -- it is a question of interpreting a judicial 20 gloss put on, essentially, to avoid a constitutional problem.
21 And so I think in that sense there may very well be a 22 difference between what is -- what constitutes closely held, 23 what constitutes National Defense Information, again looking 24 purely at those limiting principles for one who is at, sort of, 25 the need here of the First Amendment concerns than it would for

1 the New York Times where you are talking about the maximum 2 protections of the First Amendment and no other understanding 3 or obligations with respect to materials regarding the national 4 defense.

5 THE COURT: So to give you a hypothetical, let's say 6 the New York Times publishes exactly what Mr. Schulte is 7 charged with putting in his article, let's say it is a New York
8 Times article. Wikileaks says X and X is highly classified.
9 Mr. Schulte literally just sends the article to his cousin, or 10 brother, or his friend, or whatever. Is that disclosure of 11 National Defense Information because Mr. Schulte is subject to 12 heightened restrictions but the New York Times isn't?

13 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, you are getting into 14 questions that Department of Justice has studiously avoided 15 answering for a long time because they do implicate some of the 16 broadest reaches of the Espionage Act. I think the answer with 17 respect to Mr. Schulte's re-publication of the information, 18 like in Wilson, is yes.

19 In Wilson, this letter from the CIA regarding her 20 service had been published, was widely talked about, was in the 21 Congressional record. She then sought to write about that in 22 her memoir and the Second Circuit's answer was, No, this 23 applies differently to you because you are bound by the secrecy
24 agreement, you don't have the same First Amendment interest.
25 So even if what you purport to be doing is repeating

1 information that is in the public domain, by virtue of that 2 relationship to the government and the obligations attendant to 3 the handling of classified information, yes.

4 THE COURT: But Wilson is not a criminal prosecution.

5 MR. DENTON: No, yes. I think the problem, again, is 6 we get back to what is the reason why Courts have put this 7 limiting gloss on National Defense Information? And it is to 8 address First Amendment concerns. In a situation where there 9 is no First Amendment concern, where there is no question that 10 if Mr. Schulte had wanted to write about Vault 7 in a memoir, 11 he was not allowed to do so, is it appropriate to expand the 12 definition of National Defense Information beyond those precise 13 parameters that were part of Judge Crotty's instruction that 14 put the focus on whether the material was lawfully available in 15 a way that reflected the government's intention not to guard 16 it.

17 THE COURT: Let me press you on what does "lawfully 18 available" mean in the context of Squillacote and Judge 19 Crotty's instructions.

20 It is lawfully available to the New York Times. The 21 New York Times can publish an article about what is on the 22 Wikileaks, it has the First Amendment right to do that. I
23 don't think you are disputing that. So, is that lawfully 24 available?

25 MR. DENTON: I think the answer is probably not, your

1 Honor, that the information on Wikileaks was not lawfully
2 available. The fact that the New York Times and others in a
3 certain situation may have a First Amendment right to publish 4 information that is unlawfully available in the same way that 5 they have the right to publish information that's been stolen
6 from a private individual or abstracted through wire taps done 7 without consent, there are any number of circumstances in which 8 they have a First Amendment right to do it but the information, 9 itself, is unlawfully available, it is made available in 10 violation of the law.

11 THE COURT: Maybe. Maybe not. I mean I guess that's, 12 to me, unlawfully derived, obtained is different than 13 unlawfully available. Right? And to press the hypothetical 14 further, OK, let's say a non-consensual wiretap is leaked to 15 the New York Times and the New York Times has a First Amendment
16 right to publish it. Let's say they actually release the audio 17 of it. Maybe that's not lawfully available to them because it 18 was provided to them in breach of some law but if The 19 Washington Post then publishes an article about the New York
20 Times article, can you actually he say it wasn't lawfully 21 available for The Washington Post? It is in the New York 22 Times.

23 MR. DENTON: Well, I think, your Honor, that's where 24 we need to get back to sort of why we are and what the 25 defendant wants to do. The defendant is not saying he wrote

1 about things that were in the New York Times or that he 2 obtained from other lawful sources. He is saying that -- and 3 frankly, I am not even sure that he is saying that I was 4 writing about what was on Wikileaks. What he is saying is that 5 because he was writing about things that were also on 6 Wikileaks -- which in your analogy is the New York Times, the 7 unlawful recipient of the information -- that he therefore 8 should be allowed to introduce classified portions of what 9 remains on Wikileaks in support of that argument.

10 So whether he could introduce material from the New 11 York Times in support of his argument or something like that I 12 think is a little bit of a different question than whether he 13 gets to go back to the unlawfully available material.

14 THE COURT: Let me pivot to the second issue that I 15 flagged earlier because it may, to some extent, swallow the 16 hole here which is the willfully, the intent element, that is 17 to say whether, and to what extent, Mr. Schulte's state of mind 18 or subjective intent is relevant to the analysis.

19 So two separate issues here, one is the two prongs of 20 the statute, the information prong and the documents prong. I 21 think Mr. Schulte is just clearly wrong in saying that he has 22 been charged under the information prong, the S3 indictment is 23 very clear that it is the documents prong. I think that raises 24 some interesting questions. My understanding is that the same 25 charge in the first trial was brought under the information

1 prong so maybe there are categories of things that the 2 government can charge under either prong, that is to say, where 3 somebody has information in their head but then writes down, 4 memorializes it in a document, that that can be charged under 5 either. I presume it's a question for the jury whether this is 6 a, quote unquote, document. I would also assume that document 7 is given its plain meaning and if it's an actual tangible 8 document it presumably is a document even if the information 9 came from the defendant's head. But to give you a hypothetical 10 here, let's say I had classified information in my head and 11 shared it with you. Presumably, that would have to be charged 12 on the information prong; is that correct?

13 MR. DENTON: Yes.

14 THE COURT: Let's say I shared it with you by writing 15 it down and passing it to you. Is it your position, I take it, 16 that that could be charged under either prong?

17 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor.

18 THE COURT: And that by charging it under the 19 documents prong the government no longer has to prove the 20 intent element of the information prong.

21 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor.

22 THE COURT: And that's because Congress drafted the 23 law that way and it gives the prosecution the discretion to 24 charge it under either theory; is that correct?

25 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor.

XM535schC

~~TOP SECRET~~

1 THE COURT: So I will hear from Mr. Schulte on that 2 and maybe that's right.

3 MR. DENTON: If I may just, your Honor, on the 4 previous charge, it was a little bit of an unusual hybrid in 5 that it was charged as documents, writings, notes, etc., etc., 6 and information, and the charge included the intent element. I 7 think when we heard from the jury the last time, some confusion 8 about how that statute should be applied. When we sought the 9 superseder part of the goal was to eliminate the hybridization 10 and pick a prong and go with it.

11 THE COURT: And prong, to be clear, has a lower burden 12 for the government?

13 MS. SHROFF: Exactly.

14 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor.

15 THE COURT: So that may be proper, it may not be 16 proper, but I will get to that.

17 The second question is you agree that even on the 18 documents prong, "willfully" is a component of the statute and 19 the government's burden?

20 MR. DENTON: Yes.

21 THE COURT: I agree with you that "willfully" doesn't 22 require proof of the defendant's motive and intent; you don't 23 have to show he had evil motive or bad intent. I will bracket 24 for a moment whether the government's theory introduces that 25 but we will get to that shortly. But even on your theory, I

1 think to quote from your reply it requires proof that the 2 defendant made a conscious choice to communicate covered 3 information, so that is to say he has to know that it is 4 covered information and made a conscious choice to disclose it, 5 correct?

6 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor.

7 THE COURT: So I guess the question I have here -- and 8 I am not sure any of the briefing has gotten to the heart of it 9 is -- wouldn't it be a complete defense to the charge if the 10 jury were to find that Mr. Schulte believed, in good faith, 11 that it was not National Defense Information because it was 12 publicly available? Like, we are dealing with some complicated 13 issues that, as you conceded earlier there is not a whole lot 14 of law out there. If Mr. Schulte, who is not a lawyer, was 15 laboring under a good faith belief that this was not National 16 Defense Information because it was publicly available on 17 Wikileaks, putting aside whether that is a correct belief, if 18 it is a good faith belief doesn't that defeat the charge 19 because the jury could not find that he willfully disclosed it?

20 MR. DENTON: So I think there is a factual question 21 and a legal question, your Honor.

22 With respect to the factual question, we think that 23 that is not in any way a defense because, as was true at the 24 previous trial, we will introduce the defendant's various 25 secrecy agreements that make clear that public disclosure of

1 information does not authorize a CIA officer to then discuss 2 it, absent official authorization.

3 THE COURT: And that is certainly a legitimate 4 argument for to you make to the jury. Let's turn to the legal 5 question.

6 MR. DENTON: Right.

7 So I think there is a little bit of imprecision of the 8 language in Diaz that talks about the choice to communicate 9 covered information. I think that the willfulness goes to the 10 choice, not the covered information. So, in Morrison, this is 11 where the District Court noted that it is irrelevant whether 12 the defendant personally believed that the items related to the 13 national defense and his underlying motive is equally 14 irrelevant. A showing of willfulness only requires that he 15 knew he was doing something that was prohibited by law.

16 THE COURT: Right. But if he believes in good faith 17 that it is not National Defense Information, how can that be 18 satisfied, that element?

19 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, I think in that circumstance 20 it is not a question of whether he -- whether he believes it to 21 be National Defense Information or not is a separate question 22 from, again, the purpose that the defense seeks to put here 23 which is show some identity between documents on Wikileaks and 24 documents that he wrote. If the defendant wants to testify I
25 believed that this was all OK because it was publicly available

XM535schC

1 information, bracket the factual question and we dispute that 2 characterization, that doesn't require him to then show 3 document-for-document identity and require disclosure of 4 additional classified information. What is in his head, what's 5 his state of mind is something that he can testify to without 6 further disclosure of the specifics of what is on Wikileaks.

7 THE COURT: All right.

8 Mr. Schulte, let me turn to you.

9 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. What do you want me to pick up on 10 or start, basically?

11 THE COURT: That's a good question. Let me put this 12 question to you so it is a less abstract and I understand what 13 we are actually litigating here.

14 This arises in the context of your desire to use
15 classified information at trial, that is to say your Section 5 16 notice. And I guess maybe what I don't understand and I should 17 have started here is given that the Wikileaks, the leaks 18 themselves are admitted into evidence or will be admitted into 19 evidence as a classified exhibit at trial, can't you make all 20 of the arguments that you are trying to make here, and bracket 21 whether and to what extent they're legally proper -- and that's 22 a separate question. In other words, what evidence besides 23 what is being offered by the government at trial, do you need 24 to make the argument? If the argument was this stuff was all 25 available on Wikileaks, ergo or therefore it was not National

1 Defense Information, or therefore I didn't believe when I
2 disclosed it that it was National Defense Information, can't 3 you make that argument based on the government's exhibit? What 4 additional classified information would you need to use to make 5 that argument?

6 MR. SCHULTE: So I think there is two things. One, as 7 I showed the Court, I also intend to introduce these documents, 8 news articles from the Internet that are talking about the same 9 materials but the biggest issue is prejudice, is the fact that 10 you are telling the jury oh, this is classified information, 11 and restricting that information, that really prejudices me 12 because then the jury thinks, well, this is not -- it goes to 13 their minds when they are looking at information, that their 14 view is that this information is all classified, and the 15 government is going through all of these restrictions, that to 16 them it is confusing and prejudicial to me when they're making 17 the decision.

18 So, the point is that these documents should be 19 displayed just like these other documents from the Internet and 20 it should be showed to the jury that the website that's on the 21 Internet, that they can go to right now, type in a web URL and 22 go to the website just to show that this is on the Internet and 23 publicly available. I think that's the point.

24 THE COURT: So I understand you correctly, it's not 25 that you want to introduce additional classified information

XM535schC

1 beyond what the government itself intends to introduce at 2 trial, it is that you just object to the form in which it's 3 presented to the jury?

4 MR. SCHULTE: Yeah no. The government didn't a -- at 5 the first trial -- this is another issue for the Court. But 6 what the government did, especially for their first witness, 7 Rosenzweig, whatever, is that they went through and picked out 8 whatever documents from Wikileaks and they declassified those 9 documents and they gave it to him and he put it in his slide 10 show to go through those specific documents. So those were the 11 only Wikileaks disclosures that were made and publicly produced 12 as exhibits to the jury.

13 THE COURT: But the Wikileaks leaks themselves were in 14 evidence as a classified exhibit. Am I wrong about that?

15 Mr. Denton, is that correct?

16 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor. It was Government
17 Exhibit 1.

18 MR. SCHULTE: I think it was on a laptop or something, 19 right?

20 THE COURT: So I guess the question I have is that 21 given that they're in evidence, putting aside whether that -- I 22 mean, there are two separate questions here is my point. One 23 is if the information is in evidence, you can make the argument 24 that you want to make, that Look, Jury, this stuff is actually, 25 was available online, look at Government Exhibit 1, ergo it

XM535schC

1 wasn't National Defense Information or I didn't believe it was 2 National Defense Information and therefore didn't willfully do
3 anything. It seems to me that you can make that argument based 4 on what the government itself plans to introduce at trial and 5 nothing additional that you would need to make that argument.
6 That is a separate argument from there is some prejudice to you
7 from presenting it to the jury as a classified exhibit.

8 MR. SCHULTE: I think the big issue is the way the 9 material was produced to the jury was they put it all on a 10 laptop and said they could go look at it at some point, it 11 wasn't actually shown to the jury. So what I do is pick out in 12 my CIPA 5s all of the stuff relevant to the charges against me 13 and I want to pick out certain pages to display to the jury as 14 an exhibit. I don't want to just put it all on a laptop and 15 say go look at it sometime. I want to bring these points out 16 specifically and point them out to the jury as exhibits. That 17 is why I brought up the Rosenzweig expert. So, he picked out 18 certain exhibits he wanted to show to the jury, the government 19 de-classified them for his disclosure to the jury. I want the 20 same opportunity. I want to pick out the documents the 21 government is alleging that is the basis behind the MCC 22 charges. I just want to exhibit those and show those to the 23 jury instead of --

24 The big point my standby counsel makes to me is the 25 government is entitled to present the case they want to present

1 and they're basically imposing stipulations onto my case where 2 I am entitled to present my case, and my case is if you go to 3 the Wikileaks website, there is no notices like the government 4 would put up on foreign sites, there is no explicit warnings, 5 there is nothing saying -- you know, there is nothing that the 6 government did to try and take down the site or anything like 7 that. You can go to the site and you can look up and you can 8 find the specific documents here that I want to exhibit. I 9 want to show the jury this information and this is part of my, 10 the defense -- the main part of my defense I want to raise for 11 these charges. So being able to actually present them as 12 unclassified exhibits, just like the government did, I think I 13 am entitled to present my case just like they're entitled to 14 present their case. And the fact that they're able to 15 de-classify things at will shouldn't prejudice me. If I need 16 documents in the same format the government has provided why 17 can I not have these exhibits unclassified before the jury and 18 have them review it in this manner?

19 THE COURT: That's what this process is for, right, 20 Section 5 notice is for you to notify, with specificity, what 21 it is you want to use and what you want to use it for. So, 22 that's the whole point of this exercise.

23 MR. SCHULTE: Right.

24 THE COURT: And I guess I don't quite understand which 25 of these documents you are seeking to use and how that you

1 couldn't use what's already in evidence without compromising
2 classified information to make the same argument.

3 MR. SCHULTE: The two things is that what was in 4 evidence is it was just a laptop. So the government put the 5 material on a laptop and gave it to the jury to review. The 6 way I want to present my case is I want to go through each of 7 these documents, present them to the jury, and have the jury 8 review them as exhibits, not just giving the jury a laptop and 9 say go look at this at your leisure.

10 I also want to show the jury how easy it is to access 11 this information as well, you know, that they can go to the 12 sites, they can pull this information up. It is just on the 13 Internet. That's the whole crux of my case, is that this 14 information is on the Internet so being able to show to the 15 jury If you type this URL in, here is the site, and here is the 16 specific information.

17 The second part, too, is that the de-classification of 18 this information is very minor -- this stuff is already on the 19 Internet and the three points or the three things that I am 20 raising, this material, there is very little prejudice to the 21 government at all in de-classifying this information for the 22 jury. And, like I said, the government has been able to go 23 through and de-classify the things that it wants to show to the 24 jury. That's all I'm asking, is to be able to have the same 25 opportunity to show the jury the exhibits, not to have a

XM535schC

1 classified laptop and have them all look at this -- I want to 2 show, pull up the exhibits. I want to be able to go to the 3 website. I want them to go to the website to pull it up to 4 show this is accessible on the Internet and how easy it is to 5 access. That's the point.

6 The other issue that I was raising is in addition to 7 the fact that the information is not closely held we haven't 8 really talked about, but there is no prejudice at all to the 9 government.

10 The second prong is the fact that this information is 11 not harmful to the national defense anymore. These networks, 12 all of this information, the day Wikileaks information came 13 out, the government shut it down. The DevLAN was shut down.
14 All of this information was shut down. So there is no 15 prejudice at all talking about networks that no longer exist 16 anymore or this information that is not even used anymore which 17 is something else that I intend to show to the jury, that this 18 information is not -- why this information is not NDI. It is 19 not because it is public all over the Internet, it is also 20 because the government shut it down 18 months before the 21 government alleges that I introduced this information from MCC.

22 THE COURT: Mr. Denton?

23 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, I think sort of you put your 24 finger on the crux of it which is that to the extent that the 25 defendant's argument is about his state of mind, first of all,

1 that is obviously something he would have to testify about.
2 Secondly, I think, again, there is going to be a laptop in 3 evidence that has this material. To the extent that the 4 defendant wants to point to material that the jury should pay
5 attention to, he has the ability to do that. His assumptions 6 about what is still sensitive or not sensitive may be relevant 7 to his state of mind but they're not relevant to whether the 8 information should be introduced at trial. And again, to the 9 extent that there is a question about the sensitivity of it 10 there is a part of Section 6, 6(c), that would allow the 11 government to make that proffer. I don't think that is 12 relevant here. Again, it is going into evidence as a 13 classified exhibit. Section 8 of CIPA specifically authorized 14 that exhibits can be received without changing classification
15 status. We litigated whether this was an appropriate course.
16 I think here it is, and the defendant's desire to disclose more 17 in a circumstance where, again, it is not really relevant 18 because, as a factual question whether it is there or not is 19 not relevant to whether he thought it was, whether he had a 20 good faith belief it was or not which, again, is something that 21 he would have to testify to and he can testify to. So I think 22 that's really what it comes down to, your Honor.

23 THE COURT: And the harm to the government point that 24 Mr. Schulte made?

25 MR. DENTON: So, first of all, your Honor, there is

XM535schC

~~TOP SECRET~~

1 still significant harm that comes from acknowledgment. [REDACTED]

2 [REDACTED]

3 [REDACTED]

4 [REDACTED]

5 Second, [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

6 [REDACTED]

7 [REDACTED]

8 [REDACTED]

9 [REDACTED]

10 [REDACTED]

11 [REDACTED]

12 [REDACTED]

13 [REDACTED]

14 [REDACTED]

15 [REDACTED]

16 THE COURT: And putting aside whether he would have to 17 testify for it to come in or be relevant, talk to me about the 18 admissibility or use of these articles that Mr. Schulte has 19 handed up from the New York Times and other publications.

20 Presumably he could take the stand and offer these and say, you

21 know, I believe that what I put in those articles was already 22 part of the public domain including in these articles and

23 therefore didn't have the willfulness required to commit this 24 crime.

25 Is that correct?

XM535schC

1 MR. DENTON: I think that's right with the caveat
2 obviously, your Honor, the articles would not be themselves
3 offered for the truth and it would be important for the Court
4 to instruct the jury on their limited purpose. It is a little 5 unusual to have newspaper articles coming in but, again, if the 6 defendant wants to put them at issue by saying that these 7 things affected my state of mind then, again, there is an 8 appropriate limiting instruction the Court can give the jury 9 for that purpose.

10 THE COURT: OK. And what about the Wikileaks website?

11 MR. DENTON: Again, your Honor, the Wikileaks website
12 is classified. The fact that it is available does not mean 13 that it is not classified information. A lot of the 14 information on there is marked as classified. And so, again, I 15 think there may be parts of the Wikileaks website at large -- 16 and, again, there are some errors in what the defendant 17 represented about what Mr. Rosenzweig testified to -- but it is 18 the case that certain pages were declassified at the last 19 trial. Again, I think that to the extent that the defendant
20 wants to start pulling up the Wikileaks website, that's a 21 different story. I think to the extent the Court thinks it is 22 relevant that Vault 7 appears on the Wikileaks on the Internet 23 and is still there, that's something that can probably get 24 addressed by a stipulation under Section 6(c). The defendant 25 doesn't have the choice to reject a stipulation under CIPA. To

1 the extent he wants to disclose classified information, his 2 right is only to something that gives him the same substantial 3 ability to make his defense, not the precise way he wants to 4 make it. If we have to, for some reason, enter into a 5 stipulation or frankly even have one of the witnesses testify
6 that Vault 7 is still on the Internet, I think that's something 7 we can do without getting into the specifics of additional 8 parts of it that remain classified.

9 THE COURT: Well, to be clear, whether it is still on 10 the Internet today is not relevant to any of the issues in this 11 trial as far as I can tell, but whether it was on the Internet 12 at the time of the MCC leaks may well be, or at least I think 13 that's what Mr. Schulte wants to argue and I would think that 14 to the extent that it is a jury question whether it is NDI and 15 it is a jury question whether he had the necessary willfulness, 16 my intuition at the moment -- I'm going to think about this 17 stuff and not issue any ruling on this score today -- is that 18 he needs to have the ability to make those arguments to the 19 jury in some fashion or form. Now, maybe that's already the 20 case because Government Exhibit 1 will be in evidence and he 21 can point to it. It may be a stipulation or some variation you 22 are describing would be another necessary piece. I don't know.

23 But, that's what I am grappling with here.

24 MR. DENTON: Understood, your Honor.

25 Again, the last time we had an agent testify about

XM535schC

1 Government Exhibit 1, about how he downloaded from the Internet
2 on a particular series of days and that that was the material 3 that was stored there. To the extent that it is necessary to 4 confirm that as of October 2018, the sort of end of the time 5 period for the MCC counts, it was still there, that is 6 something we can have somebody testify to or stipulate to or 7 find some other way to satisfy that.

8 THE COURT: OK.

9 Mr. Schulte, why would that not suffice and what 10 particular portions of the website or document would you need 11 to point to to make the argument that you want to make that you 12 couldn't make on the basis of Government Exhibit 1 which will 13 presumably be in evidence at this trial as well?

14 MR. SCHULTE: The first thing I want to bring up is 15 that this is the whole point of CIPA. Why, during the first 16 trial, did the government say [REDACTED]

17 [REDACTED]
18 [REDACTED]
19 [REDACTED]. The point of this is for me to identify the 20 information that is relevant to my defense. I mean, that's the 21 whole point of CIPA. So the fact that the government is 22 saying, well, this is classified so we will keep it classified 23 and shut down the trial and can't get a public trial for the 24 three or four days of the MCC charge, is just absurd. That's 25 the whole point of this.

XM535schC

1 The other thing is the introduction of the Exhibit 1 2 to the jury is simply to show the jury the information. The 3 government is alleging that this is National Defense
4 Information. There was no specific argument for any specific 5 document there. The introduction of that evidence was simply 6 here is all of the Wikileaks disclosures, you can browse
7 through and look at it and determine basically if this is NDI 8 or not.

9 THE COURT: But my question is -- and I am inclined to 10 agree with Mr. Denton -- that unless you take the stand I am 11 not sure how this argument is even made but -- well, there is 12 the objective, This isn't National Defense Information because 13 it was publicly available, I'm not sure you need to take the 14 stand to make that argument if that is a proper argument and 15 I'm going to think about that, versus the I believed in good
16 faith that this wasn't National Defense Information. I think 17 there is no way to make that, to inject that argument in the 18 trial unless you take the stand.

19 The question that I am trying to put to you and I want 20 a specific answer is whichever of those arguments you make, 21 whether you testify or you don't testify, why can't you make 22 that argument on the basis of what will be in evidence, namely 23 the leak itself and classified Exhibit 1? In other words, you 24 can point to that and say, look, ladies and gentlemen of the 25 jury, all the information in the documents that I'm accused of

XM535schC

1 leaking from the MCC, all of that information was on the 2 Internet, you can see it for yourself in Government Exhibit 1 3 and you have heard either the stipulation or the witness, as 4 the case may be, that on the date that I am charged with 5 leaking this from the MCC, that all of it was still there on 6 that date so this is not National Defense Information because 7 it was free and available to everyone who typed in the URL and 8 went to the website. In other words, you can make that 9 argument already. What additional disclosure do you need to 10 make that argument?

11 MR. SCHULTE: The first thing is we need access to the 12 Internet to show, to type the URL in, to go to the website to 13 show that this is on the Internet. But the bigger thing, the 14 bigger issue is I want to specifically go through these 15 documents and show the very specific statement that the 16 government says I made that are NDI. I don't want to simply -- 17 I mean, this is the crux of my defense. It basically would be 18 neutering my whole defense if I am just saying, Look at this,
19 this is not NDI, take a look at Government Exhibit 1. I have a 20 right for the complete defense to show each of the pages and 21 show to the jury, OK, if you read this from exhibit whatever, 22 look what Wikileaks says, it says -- and then show statements 23 the government says that I -- allege that I made. It is the 24 exact same. This is the exact same wording. And then, go to 25 the next one, here it is again, it is the exact same wording.

XM535schC

1 And then go back and show, OK, this is on the Internet. The 2 government didn't put up any -- there is no special warnings or 3 anything about this. You can go to this URL and you can see 4 the exact same phrasing here and compare it. I want to put up 5 multiple exhibits and then compare it with what the government
6 says that I said and to show that it's all the same.

7 So this is not simply, oh, just go take a look at 8 GX- 1. I want to spend considerable time going through each of 9 these specific documents and showing the exact words that were 10 said on Wikileaks, the exact words the government says I said, 11 and compare them.

12 The other issue, the other big issue comes back to the 13 prejudice. The GX- 1 was admitted into evidence. The FBI
14 testified I had to go to a special place, I had to download 15 this on this computer, keep it secure, this is classified, this 16 is very highly classified information from the CIA. So, by 17 doing all of that, it significantly prejudices me in actually 18 putting up exhibits where the jury is not notified on anything 19 like that, it is just GX- whatever. We are not saying this is, 20 you know, super sensitive or anything like that. I should be 21 able to show, for the jury: Here is the exhibit, this is from 22 the website, this is from the URL, these are the exact words, 23 and not be prejudiced by either shutting down the whole trial
24 to present classified exhibits or otherwise just telling them
25 to reference the classified GX- 1 laptop.

XM535schC

1 So, just as they can call an FBI agent, I would want
2 to call a paralegal to basically testify and show that he went 3 to this website, show how he typed the URL in, how he went to a 4 certain page and to display the information there before the 5 jury. And, again, I want to make clear that the government has 6 already essentially done this. Why couldn't they, for 7 Rosenzweig, when he testified, why couldn't they say look at 8 GX- 1. No. What they did is they specifically went through 9 the pages, they showed to the jury -- they declassified them
10 and showed them to the jury. So the government has done this 11 and it has done this to benefit itself and is basically saying 12 I don't have the same opportunity to do the same thing that 13 they have already done and, instead, either shut down the whole 14 trial or let's just reference this classified laptop and tell 15 the jury to look through this. You know, it just neuters my 16 defense completely, I'm not able to make the same defense that 17 I would otherwise be able to make, this was classified or at 18 least whatever redactions.

19 THE COURT: Mr. Denton, let me turn back to you.

20 Number one, could Mr. Schulte call a witness, whether 21 a paralegal or someone, to testify that they went on a regular 22 computer and typed in this URL and this is what popped up?

23 MR. DENTON: No, your Honor. [REDACTED]

24 [REDACTED]. The Court would have to authorize its disclosure 25 under Sections 5 and 6.

1 THE COURT: OK.

2 And the second question, to the extent that 3 Mr. Schulte wants to point to these particular, let's call them
4 extracts from the Wikileaks disclosures, is not one answer here 5 to admit these as Government's Exhibits 1A, 1B, 1C, 1D, have 6 the documents themselves basically just separated from their 7 source, and Mr. Schulte can then more easily direct the jury's 8 attention to them and make whatever arguments he wants to make?

9 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor -- or defense exhibits if 10 he wants to denominate them as such.

11 MR. SCHULTE: But they would close the courtroom down; 12 is that right? It wouldn't be a public trial anymore if that's 13 what you are still referring to them as classified exhibits, 14 right?

15 THE COURT: Mr. Denton?

16 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor. In a sense there is a 17 limited courtroom closure for the introduction of classified 18 exhibits. That was all briefed with the introduction of 19 Government Exhibit 1. There isn't a lot of experience in this 20 district with it. My understanding is that, in particular in 21 the Eastern District of Virginia where this has happened a 22 number of times, Courts have sort of worked around it where 23 juries have been shown exhibits and the testimony sort of 24 points to the exhibit without getting into its content in any 25 detail. I think if there the sort of finer points of the

XM535schC

1 limited closure are what's at issue, I think that's something
2 we can certainly work through. Again, to the extent the goal
3 is for the defendant to point to particular parts of Government
4 Exhibit 1, I think your Honor's solution is a particularly fine 5 one and we can identify those, as such. I would note, purely 6 as an administrative matter, the defendant identifies a lot of 7 duplicative pages as potential exhibits. I don't know whether 8 we would need to do all of that way but if they're staying in 9 classified form and they are all coming into evidence anyway, I 10 think we can do basically whatever he feels he wants as far as 11 that list goes.

12 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte, why doesn't that provide you 13 what you need to make the argument you want to make to the 14 jury? Let's bracket, for the moment, the public trial question 15 because that is a separate question. The question here is 16 whether you can make the arguments you want to make as part of 17 your defense.

18 MR. SCHULTE: The point is I lose, basically, the ease 19 of being able to show them without the burden of saying, oh, 20 here is this information classified, this information is 21 protected, and the ease with which they can access it such 22 as -- so, you know, they are saying that I can't have a 23 paralegal testify and actually go to the website in front of 24 the jury without either closing it or without saying, oh, this 25 is classified. So, that's the issue. The issue is I want to

XM535schC

1 be able to present my case and to show this and to be able to 2 show the jury the ease of which they can access this material, 3 the ease with which they could have accessed the material. The 4 whole point is this is not NDI so I don't want the jury to be 5 prejudiced, with the caveat, oh, this is classified 6 information, this is very protected, you can't disclose this to 7 anyone. Because then if I am making the argument that this is 8 NDI, it goes against -- the jury's is already prejudiced 9 against me saying the government, we had to do all of these 10 restrictive measures and they couldn't even go to the website
11 on the Internet, they can't even it is so restricted.

12 The point is I can't make the same defense I otherwise 13 could make by simply exhibiting things, just as the government 14 has done with its own, because of the restrictions and 15 prejudice to the jury about how this information is displayed 16 and how they accessed this information easily through the 17 Internet.

18 There is a reason that demonstratives are used, to be 19 able to easily explain to the jury, the government is simply 20 stopping me from doing that. I want to have -- I want to show 21 a demonstrative of how easily this information is accessible.
22 I don't want -- and that the government didn't take any steps 23 on taking this site down or anything and basically showing this 24 information without the weight of the prejudice behind the 25 classified nature or whatever other things would accompany

1 having them be classified exhibits.

2 I also note for the Court that in the previous trial
3 before Judge Crotty, there was nothing else that was ever 4 introduced as classified exhibits. We went through binders and 5 binders of information and the whole point was to de-classify
6 it for the jury. The only thing that was agreed to have a 7 classified exhibit was simply information that both parties 8 were not going to reference specifically but which the 9 government just wanted to show generically the entire -- the 10 documents for the jury to basically browse at its leisure.
11 This is completely different. What I am proposing is 12 essentially what we did to the other documents before Judge 13 Crotty. There was never any other introduction, there was 14 never any other classified exhibits at all through the trial.

15 THE COURT: All right. Last question for Mr. Denton 16 on this front and then I want to move on since I think we have 17 probably plowed this ground.

18 The question I have for you is you suggested that 19 maybe under 6(c) there is a stipulation that would suffice here 20 and I guess my question is what would that stipulation say that 21 wouldn't be a form of the testimony that you just said would be 22 impermissible, namely, that somebody could just simply go on 23 the Internet and type in a URL and up would pop this document.

24 MR. DENTON: So I think, your Honor, the issue comes 25 from sort of the public display. I think that if the issue is

XM535schC

1 just confirming that a particular page remains available on the 2 Internet without either a witness or the government displaying 3 it and giving it imprimatur and otherwise putting it up in a 4 public proceeding, I think that's fine. I question whether 5 there is any relevance as to what your Honor earlier noted as 6 opposed to what was available now as opposed to what was 7 available in October of 2018 but I think, again, there might be 8 some stipulation that doesn't involve the actual disclosure of 9 the classified information that simply says this is still on 10 Wikileaks.

11 THE COURT: But would it be something in the nature of 12 between March of 2017 and -- well, whatever date -- and October 13 of 2018, Government Exhibit 1 was available on the Internet?

14 MR. DENTON: Yes. I think that would work, your 15 Honor. We might have to modify it to reflect that the leaks 16 came out in dribs and drabs but we can figure out the details
17 on that. In concept, I think that would work.

18 THE COURT: I would think about that because I think, 19 at a minimum, that is certainly -- I think Mr. Schulte is 20 entitled to that to make some of the arguments that he wishes 21 to make here. I am also inclined to think that, at a minimum, 22 admitting these documents as essentially pullouts from 23 Government Exhibit 1 so that they're more easily identifiable 24 to the jury is also fair game, but I will ponder the rest of 25 this and we will revisit it, as needed, and I will issue

1 rulings, as needed, or we will take it as it comes.

2 I think that covers a lot of this. One other 3 component of the Section 5 notice was, essentially, the 4 relevance of sort of other CIA operations information, 5 essentially that, for lack of a better way of describing it, 6 the argument that Mr. Schulte had more damaging National 7 Defense Information at his disposal and if he really wanted to 8 harm the United States he could have revealed or would have 9 revealed that than what he allegedly did reveal. I guess I am 10 inclined to think here that but for one significant thing that 11 I will get to in a moment, that the government is right that 12 his motives are not relevant and the fact that he could have 13 inflicted more damage is not necessarily relevant. But, the 14 one significant caveat to that is to the extent the government 15 intends to introduce Mr. Schulte's statement that he wanted to 16 or was engaged in a, quote unquote, information war with the 17 United States, does that not open the door to this sort of 18 argument? That is to say, yes, the government doesn't have to 19 prove ill will or evil motive, but if part of the government's 20 theory of the case is that Mr. Schulte was in fact engaging in 21 a, quote unquote, information war, is it not fair game for 22 Mr. Schulte to come back and say that makes no sense because I 23 had all these other more significant weapons at my disposal and 24 if I was engaged in a war with the United States, it makes no 25 sense that I would have done this and not used these weapons.

1 So that's my question to you, Mr. Denton.

2 MR. DENTON: So I think two things, your Honor.

3 First of all, that very much does require the 4 defendant to testify. The second thing is I think the 5 defendant indicated that he intended to testify about the 6 specifics of that information. I think there is a difference 7 between what your Honor characterized, which is an argument or 8 testimony that why would anyone think this was an information 9 war, this was so innocuous. That is very different from 10 saying, and you know it's innocuous because here is the [REDACTED]
11 [REDACTED]

12 THE COURT: I want to be clear, he is not going do 13 that. And I don't know if he is suggesting that that's what he 14 plans to do but that, to me, is definitely not even close to 15 the line.

16 But I guess the question to me is is that a legitimate 17 argument. And then we can talk about what he would need to 18 make that argument and maybe it is not more than either a 19 stipulation or generalized testimony that he was privy to 20 various information at the CIA regarding [REDACTED] 21 [REDACTED] regarding this and that that were highly 22 classified, potentially deeply damaging to the United States, 23 and there is no allegation that he disclosed any of that,
24 without getting into the particulars.

25 MR. DENTON: Again, I think something along those

XM535schC

1 lines might be possible, your Honor. I think it is just,
2 there, it really is the devil is in the details. So we are 3 responding to what the defendant put in his Section 5 notice
4 which included [REDACTED] and a laundry list of things 5 that we don't think was sufficiently specifically and so didn't 6 meet the requirements of Section 5. I think if he wants to, if 7 the Court is inclined to give him permission to give him a more 8 specific notice of what he intends to say, then we can address 9 that and there may be a stipulation but the devil is very much 10 in the details on where there would be sensitivity there.

11 THE COURT: Do you agree that at that level of 12 generality the argument that he is engaged in information war 13 sort of opens the door to at least some rebuttal of that sort?

14 MR. DENTON: I'm not sure that it does, your Honor, 15 because the defendant's characterization of his own statements 16 I don't think requires evidence of other things that were -- 17 could have been in his mind. Again, to the extent that the 18 defendant wants to testify, That's not what I meant, that's 19 very different from saying, And I could have meant something 20 else. The hypothetical is not relevant to his testimony that 21 this is not what I meant when I said that.

22 He has a theory that the information war was about his 23 petitioning of grievances with respect to the justice system.
24 If he wants to say, That's what I meant about that, that's 25 totally fair game. But to say, I could have meant something

XM535schC

1 else and I would have done it this way, I think is a 2 hypothetical that's not relevant to the question of what his 3 state of mind actually was.

4 THE COURT: All right.

5 Mr. Schulte?

6 MR. SCHULTE: The government is mischaracterizing 7 information, that's the problem, is that as defined in the 8 notebooks, yes, I say "information war," I defined it 9 specifically to be unclassified redress of grievances. What 10 the government is arguing, as they did in the first trial, oh, 11 he declared information war so he could release classified 12 information. So, by the government saying that, the Court is 13 right, that is what opens the door, is by the government saying 14 that I intended to release classified information, that is what 15 then opens the door to say, well, this doesn't even make sense 16 because the things that the government says are classified and 17 how they're produced in these documents, you know, two 18 sentences on page 84 out of a 160-page document, how is that 19 intent? How is that showing that I am trying to release 20 classified information when, in reality, I know all this 21 information.

22 And the Court is also right where I specifically say
23 that this information, I state it in generic terms, and so it 24 doesn't make sense when the government is saying, well, he 25 needs to be more specific so that we can determine if it is

XM535schC

1 relevant. But the whole point is I am putting it in generic 2 terms so that it is unclassified to be used so it doesn't make 3 sense for the government to say I have to be specific so that I 4 can be generic when I am purposefully being generic about the 5 information I know to keep it unclassified so we can continue 6 to protect it from disclosure.

7 So by saying that I had -- that I know [REDACTED] 8 particular -- I know [REDACTED] that could cause harm to the 9 U.S. or [REDACTED] that I worked on, you
10 know, this type of information. And that's why I stated 11 generically in the CIPA 5 that there is no -- I'm not trying to 12 say anything specific. And I even say in the CIPA 6 that, you 13 know, the point of it is not to divulge specific information 14 regarding CIA sources and methods. The point is generic, 15 unclassified testimony.

16 THE COURT: I do think the devil is in the details.

17 To be clear, in your Section 5 notice you say, I 18 intend to testify about all this highly classified information
19 including the [REDACTED] in [REDACTED]

21 MR. SCHULTE: Correct.

22 THE COURT: Just to be clear, you are not proposing or 23 suggesting that you would divulge [REDACTED]

24 MR. SCHULTE: No. That's right. The information
25 there is literally what I am going to be testifying. I'm not

XM535schC

1 saying that these are the [REDACTED] I'm not going to be 2 testifying, Here is the [REDACTED] and cause damage. I'm saying I 3 know that --

4 THE COURT: In other words, you would testify
5 essentially as you just state here, that I was privy to the
6 [REDACTED] --

7 MR. SCHULTE: Correct.

8 THE COURT: -- [REDACTED]
9 and had I intended to cause damage in the United States and 10 engaged in a war I could have disclosed that but I didn't.

11 MR. SCHULTE: Correct.

12 THE COURT: So, Mr. Denton, maybe that clarifies it.
13 If the level of generality or detail, as the case may be, is 14 literally what is here, just that Mr. Schulte does propose to 15 testify and say he was privy to this kind of information 16 without disclosing the particulars of any of the information, 17 problem? Not a problem?

18 MR. DENTON: I think two things, your Honor.

19 First, the problem for Mr. Schulte is, again, where 20 does this come in as a matter of relevance? I think it is 21 seriously freightening the government's use of "information war" 22 to say he gets to introduce a whole bunch of information that 23 is, as a matter of law, not relevant to an element of the 24 offense. So I think to the extent that that's what we are 25 bearing it on, again, we are far afield from the defendant's

1 own version of what "information war" meant.

2 THE COURT: But let me ask you to assume for the sake
3 of argument that I disagree with you and that by introducing 4 the concept of Mr. Schulte being engaged in an information war, 5 you are opening the door to him saying information war? That 6 makes no sense. I was privy to all of this more damaging 7 information and there is no allegation that I have disclosed 8 that. So let's assume that I disagree with you on that.

9 MR. DENTON: So I think, your Honor, in that instance, 10 again, we would have to have a pretty serious discussion. I 11 think even this level of generality is, A, more than would 12 be -- is something that we could tolerate, I think again
13 talking about the [REDACTED] 14 particularly when you associate that with the type of work that 15 Mr. Schulte did and the testimony about the types of tools that 16 he worked on gets problematic.

17 Also, to the extent the defendant is purporting to 18 testify about [REDACTED]

19 [REDACTED] I think we may have a candor question. We need 20 to figure out whether what he is proffering is something he 21 actually knew or is true. There are representations he makes 22 in his notebooks that are false about operations that were 23 conducted or that he worked on.

24 THE COURT: I mean that --

25 MR. DENTON: I would say, your Honor, I think at that

XM535schC

1 point what would probably fit the bill is a statement that, you
2 know, Mr. Schulte, as a result of his work at the CIA, was 3 privy to additional, highly-sensitive classified information 4 that was not recorded in Government's Exhibits 801, 806, and 5 809.

6 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte?

7 MR. SCHULTE: So Mr. Denton is basically saying I 8 don't get to try my case at all, it is all by stipulation for 9 the government. It is just -- it is absurd, especially the 10 government is saying, well, the statements that I am making are 11 not true. I mean, I don't know what they're trying to do. If 12 they're going to bring it out on cross-examination then they're 13 bringing out the detail. That doesn't really make any sense so 14 I am not really clear what he is trying to say about that.

15 But, the big issue that we come back to is they're 16 trying to say, oh, his information war -- the point is if the 17 government is trying to say the information war is something 18 other than what was actually defined in the notebooks which it 19 specifically states this redress of grievances, so the 20 government is trying to say that it is to release classified 21 information then I should be able to testify that this is 22 absurd because here is actual, true National Defense 23 Information that I know about that were never released, 24 intended to release, even discussed in the notebooks.

25 THE COURT: Well, I think in answer to the first

XM535schC

1 point, that's what 6(c) is about. To the extent that I think
2 it is relevant and admissible, it may be that it is admissible 3 but in a form that we wouldn't necessarily want it to be 4 admitted in at a normal trial because it involves classified
5 information. So that is what this exercise is about.

6 I am inclined -- again, I'm going to reserve judgment 7 here too so I can think a bit more about it, I am inclined to 8 think that by introducing the concept of an information war and 9 making the argument that that was part of the defendant's 10 motive here, that the government does open the door to 11 testimony of this nature, then I think the question is a 6(c) 12 one, what does the testimony entail or look like and at what 13 level of generality is it summarized but we are not at the 6(c) 14 stage just yet.

15 Yes, Mr. Denton?

16 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, I think there is an issue
17 here that I'm not really following where the factual
18 introduction of the defendant's statement about the information 19 war and the law are going to coincide. The defendant has put 20 his intent at issue. He is claiming he did not intend to 21 disclose classified information. That does not require the 22 government to prove or him to disprove that he had any intent 23 to harm the United States. And so, again, the question of what 24 "information war" means in the context of the defendant having 25 written it down, it's words that he said, it's not a statement

XM535schC

1 one way or the other, and his intent remains not an element of 2 the offense either way. And so, I sort of fail to see how the 3 introduction of his own statement and testimony from another 4 witness who will testify about his use of the statement in 5 context of the notebooks does anything other than, again, the 6 basic legal point of putting his intent at issue and intent to 7 harm is not the relevant intent.

8 THE COURT: All right. I understand, and to the 9 extent that is an argument under 6(a), I will take it under 10 advisement. If I disagree with you then we are in 6(c) land 11 and will discuss what form it will take. And you may be on 12 firm ground in arguing the level of detail disclosed here is 13 problematic and also not necessary for him to make the argument 14 that he wants to make but we are not there yet. So, I will 15 reserve judgment and we will circle back to it.

16 Let's take a five-minute break and we will pick up 17 from there. See you in five minutes.

18 (Recess).

19 MS. SHROFF: Your Honor, I'm sorry. Before the Court

The only remaining things that I have to cover -- we are almost near the end, I think -- are number one, the [REDACTED] issue; number two, the audio-video recordings; number three, the Michael memo that Mr. Schulte raised today; and number four, the forensic crime scene. I think that's all that I have on my remaining agenda. When I say that's all I'm not sure it will be so quick but, nevertheless, I think we have covered the big picture items.

THE COURT: So, Mr. Schulte, I am inclined to agree with the government that you have not disclosed with the requisite specificity what you propose to testify to [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] so in that sense I disagree that I don't think the ball is, quote unquote, in the government's court, I think it is firmly in yours under Section 5 and you haven't satisfied the particularity requirement of that section.

So, if you want to elaborate and explain?

MR. SCHULTE: Yes.

So this comes back to the same issue before about my testimony. This is just generic. [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

THE COURT: And the purpose --

MR. SCHULTE: So the government is saying that I'm not specific enough, that's the point, is I'm trying to be generic to keep it unclassified. I'm not trying to say, oh, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] I am trying to keep it generic to keep it

XM535schC

1 unclassified [REDACTED]

2 [REDACTED]

3 THE COURT: OK. And the purpose of that testimony is

5 MR. SCHULTE: It is the same -- it is just the same,

8 [REDACTED]

9 [REDACTED]

10 [REDACTED]

11 [REDACTED]

16 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. So, I'm sorry, is Mr. Denton
17 saying [REDACTED]

18

19 THE COURT: I don't know. I guess the question is -- 20 and, unfortunately, I don't think I have your original

21 Section 5 notices here [REDACTED]

22

23

24

25 MR. DENTON: I think again, your Honor, that ended up

11 [REDACTED]

12 [REDACTED]

13 [REDACTED]

14 [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Again, I think we can carve this 15 down to what is the point, and the point is that the defendant 16 can testify about things within his personal knowledge relevant 17 to an issue in the case.

18 THE COURT: Ms. Shroff, it is very hard to tell when 19 you are speaking to Mr. Schulte whether it is something on the 20 record to me or not and I would ask you just to refrain from 21 commenting, particularly when somebody else is speaking.

22 Mr. Schulte, can you respond to that and clarify what 23 exactly you are seeking to offer here? I mean, to the extent
24 you are simply proposing to [REDACTED]
25 [REDACTED]

XM535schC

[REDACTED]

THE COURT: And if Mr. Schulte were to testify literally verbatim as to what is in his notice here, that he relied on -- or that [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] -- I don't even know what number two means -- if he were to testify just to this but not to any of the particulars, OK? Not OK?

MR. DENTON: I think then we have a 403 question which is what does this have to do with anything.

THE COURT: That is a good question.

Mr. Schulte, what does this have to do with anything?

MR. SCHULTE: Yeah, I mean, I think the government objected to [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

THE COURT: Well, that's not the question I am asking you. What is the relevance of what you are proposing to testify to here. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Mr. Denton takes no issue with you testifying about that, but why do you need to go beyond that to offer any testimony or evidence concerning [REDACTED]

1 THE COURT: Mr. Denton?

2 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, there is a level of 4 Section 6 proceeding. First of all, I don't know if I am

5 misinterpreting what Mr. Schulte said or what, but Mr. Schulte

6

7

8 That is a lie.

9 To the extent that he wants to assert that he had some 10 involvement in [REDACTED] that is also false.
11 I think what we are prepared to do is reach a reasonable 12 agreement about what he can say about his personal involvement 13 in things that was an explanation for this conduct. If the 14 defendant wants to lie about it, then we are just not going to 15 be able to reach a stipulation. We are not going to agree to 16 facts that are false. So we are getting a little further 17 afield than I thought we had ever been on this subject.

18 MR. SCHULTE: Yes, so that's -- as an initial matter, 19 I have been involved in actually discussing [REDACTED] but

1 THE COURT: Why don't you do that -- can you do it by 2 the end of this week?

3 MR. DENTON: Definitely, your Honor.

4 MS. SHROFF: Your Honor, we ask that the government 5 provide us with a copy of whatever it gives to the Court to 6 Mr. Schulte too.

7 I wanted to point out that the trial strategy at the 8 first trial is not necessarily the trial strategy at the second 9 trial. It could very well be that his defense team had decided 10 that he wasn't going to testify at the first trial. So, the 11 arguments that Mr. Schulte makes now should not necessarily be 12 precluded because we didn't make them in the first trial 13 because we may have made different judgment calls at the first 14 trial.

15 And I just remind Mr. Schulte, and noting the Court's 16 admonition to not speak at the same time as the other 17 proceedings are going on which is hard as standby counsel, I 18 just wanted to note that he is not required to preview his 19 entire testimony here for the government to then shape their 20 own case-in-chief and how they're going to cross-examine him.
21 I don't think CIPA requires that of Mr. Schulte and I think 22 Mr. Schulte may want to object on that ground.

23 THE COURT: First of all, Mr. Schulte is representing 24 himself, you are not representing him, so in that regard I will 25 hear from him but not from you.

XM535schC

1 Number two, I don't object to you communicating with 2 Mr. Schulte. I object to you communicating with him in an 3 audible fashion that makes it difficult for the court reporter 4 and me to know when you are speaking in a way that we are 5 intending to hear and listen to and respond to versus just 6 speaking to him.

7 So I'm not preventing from communicating --

8 MS. SHROFF: No, no. I didn't mean to imply that.

9 THE COURT: Number three, I think Section 5 does in 10 fact require Mr. Schulte to disclose to the government and to 11 me what, if any, classified information he intends to use as 12 part of his case, whether it is through his testimony or 13 otherwise, so that we can litigate whether he is permitted to 14 do so and, if so, whether there is a substitute or redaction or 15 whatever the case may be. This is not normal litigation and 16 you have been down this road before, you understand how this 17 works but I think you are just flat wrong about that.

18 MS. SHROFF: Your Honor, in the last trial we asked 19 for the Section 5 notice about his testimony to be given just 20 to Judge Crotty and we asked Judge Crotty to hold off on such a 21 hearing after the government ended its case.

22 THE COURT: Well, no such request has been made to me 23 so I have not been presented with that.

24 In any event, Mr. Schulte said that what he proposes 25 to do is [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

XM535schC

1 [REDACTED] and that requires
2 me to look at the documents that the government will submit to 3 me by the end of the week and of course they will provide a 4 copy to Mr. Schulte.

5 Now I will turn to the next item which was the 6 recordings and here I am just not quite sure I understand what 7 the issue is. So, Mr. Denton, let me start with you. Maybe 8 you can elaborate or explain what we are talking about here.

9 MR. DENTON: Sure, your Honor.

10 So in answer of the defendant's arrest as part of the 11 investigation, a number of individuals who were working in 12 essence as confidential sources for law enforcement -- they 13 were penal known to the defendant -- had communications with 14 him that were recorded and provided. There is 70-some-odd of 15 them. All but nine of them are either unclassified or 16 declassified and are available to the defendant in unclassified
17 discovery. There are nine that include classified information
18 which remain classified and were not the subject of a Section 5 19 notice so we were a little surprised to see that in the 20 defendant's response as well.

21 Again, to the extent that the defendant wants to use 22 them, give us notice on what, we can have a discussion about 23 how or whether they can be redacted in an appropriate way for 24 use at trial. Again, to the extent the defendant is seeking to 25 offer his own statements for their truth, there would be an

XM535schC

1 admissible problem separate from the CIPA problem but I think,
2 again, we are just a little bit at odds on what we are supposed 3 to be doing about the recordings.

4 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte, I didn't see this anywhere in 5 your Section 5 notice so was a little puzzled myself. So, can 6 you explain?

7 MR. SCHULTE: Both this issue and the micro issue --

8 THE COURT: Let's take them one at a time so start 9 with the recordings.

10 MR. SCHULTE: Right.

11 So, the CIPA 5 I submitted was supplemental and I 12 basically said I renew the same objections or discussions on 13 the previous CIPA 5, so my intent today in coming to the 14 hearing was specifically to talk about these two issues so I 15 didn't think I had to give a new CIPA 5 notice on the same 16 issues that were noticed before. If that was not correct then 17 I am mistaken. I am mistaken on that.

18 THE COURT: So these recordings were in your Section 5 19 notice before the first trial?

20 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. We moved to de-classify this 21 information for the first trial was my recollection.

22 THE COURT: So I read Judge Crotty's rulings on the 23 CIPA Section 5 and 6 issues and I don't recall seeing anything 24 about the recordings.

25 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, there were two separate

XM535schC

1 issues. They were not part of the CIPA proceedings. The 2 defendant objected to the classification of the recordings and 3 moved for an order requiring the government to declassify them
4 because he felt they were unclassified. Judge Crotty rejected
5 that and, again, we noted that there were only nine of them
6 that had that and the Court held that he would not compel 7 declassification.

8 That's as far as it went.

9 THE COURT: Were those recordings identified in his 10 Section 5 notice before the first trial?

11 MR. DENTON: I don't believe they were, your Honor.

12 THE COURT: OK.

13 Mr. Schulte?

14 MR. SCHULTE: So, the point to declassify the 15 recordings was for use at trial, so my recollection is this was 16 included in the CIPA proceeding. But, even if it wasn't, we 17 moved to declassify it for use at trial so it should have been 18 basically -- it should have been pursuant to the same CIPA.
19 The whole point of the CIPA is for declassification for use at 20 trial or substitution so we moved -- or the Judge had separate 21 orders regarding that, is my recollection, and maybe I am 22 mistaken about that, but I thought that was all with the same, 23 with the CIPA 6 proceeding before. If it wasn't, it is still 24 the motion to remove the classified or declassify it would 25 still be technically a CIPA motion or related to CIPA so I

1 think it is still relevant for discussion here.

2 I think the big issue regarding these nine documents
3 or these nine recordings is we never really received 4 explanations or testimony for what specifically was classified 5 or why it was classified and that's basically the point of 6 bringing this up again, is, you know, what is classified, why 7 is it classified, and the biggest question is, is it still 8 classified now. So that's, you know, the Judge previously 9 denied the request but, you know, so much time has passed now 10 whether this information is still classified or not, what is 11 classified, and then proceeding from there to introduce them at 12 trial because that was the whole point, is that when I am 13 testifying that this would be -- these conversations and audio 14 recordings would be admissible at trial.

15 THE COURT: Well, there are two separate issues here, 16 one is whether they're properly classified and I have any 17 authority to direct that they be unclassified and I have ruled 18 on that issue before, at least as presented to me, I don't 19 think that there is a basis to direct the government to 20 declassify these things and, in any event, you have provided me 21 no basis to reconsider what sounds like a definitive ruling on 22 that by Judge Crotty. That's a separate question from the CIPA 23 process which requires to you provide notice under Section 5 if 24 you intend to use classified information and then there is a 25 process under CIPA to adjudicate whether and in what form that

XM535schC

1 information can be used. It does not sound like you are 2 disputing that you have never noticed these recordings under 3 Section 5. So, under Section 5, under CIPA, there is no basis 4 for you to use these at trial because they have never been 5 noticed, let alone properly noticed. So if you want to try and 6 remedy that at this point you can try to remedy that but at the 7 moment it is not ripe for me to rule on it and the deadline for 8 you to provide notice under Section 5 has obviously passed.

9 Is that the same issue for the Michael memorandum? I 10 don't even know what that is but I don't recall reading about 11 the Michael memorandum in Judge Crotty's prior rulings either.

12 Mr. Denton, do you know?

13 MR. DENTON: I'm not sure what the issue is but I can 14 provide some context, your Honor.

15 The Michael memorandum is also what Judge Crotty
16 referred to in his Rule 29 order as the CIMC memorandum. There 17 was a co-worker of the defendant's who was called as a witness 18 at the last trial who will not be called as a witness at this 19 trial who was placed on administrative leave. Judge Crotty 20 directed us to produce a copy of the memorandum, directing that 21 during the trial. I'm not sure, it has been a while since I 22 have looked at the original version of the memo, I think the 23 version that was introduced at trial was redacted only in 24 ministerial parts and was declassified for introduction at 25 Judge Crotty's very firm insistence. So I'm not sure what the

1 classification issue is here. We have a separate objections 2 raised in our motions in limine about why we don't think it is 3 admissible in the retrial but I don't see that as a CIPA issue, 4 that's just a motion in limine issue.

5 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte, I will obviously take it 6 under advisement in connection with the motions in limine, but 7 what is the CIPA issue here?

8 MR. SCHULTE: The CIPA issue is whether or not -- or 9 basically that I intend to use this material at trial so I have 10 to -- so we have to go through whatever CIPA proceedings, 11 whether or not or what material should be redacted or 12 substituted or --

13 THE COURT: That sounds like it was declassified and 14 used at the first trial.

15 MR. SCHULTE: A lot of the material I believe was not 16 declassified so basically what I am trying to litigate is some 17 of this information that was provided to us only as classified 18 and they did it -- it wasn't declassified for the first trial, 19 I basically want to declassify it at this time for trial.

20 THE COURT: Is there a reason it wasn't in your 21 Section 5 notices?

22 MR. SCHULTE: Yes.

23 So, for both of these issues my understanding was they 24 were both in the original CIPA 5 or they were at least 25 litigated pursuant to CIPA before. I mean, I know -- the

XM535schC

1 Microsoft came in the middle of trial so we had to basically do 2 a quick kind of CIPA litigation there, but my understanding is 3 whatever was previously litigated, there is no point in raising 4 new -- raising a new CIPA 5. That was -- so, for both of these 5 issues, both the Michael and the audio recordings, I want to be 6 clear that I do want to give notice. I know it's kind of late 7 now but I think it's, according to standby counsel, 30 days
8 before trial. We have provided --

9 THE COURT: It is actually 30 days before trial or 10 whatever deadline the Court sets, and I already set a deadline 11 and that deadline has passed. So you can certainly make late 12 notice if you want and litigate the propriety of that and 13 whether I will allow it but, unless and until you do, there is 14 no reason to adjudicate that.

15 MR. SCHULTE: So -- I'm sorry.

16 THE COURT: I just don't understand. Mr. Denton is 17 suggesting that the Michael memorandum or CIMC, whatever it may 18 be called, that there were no substantive redactions, that 19 there were only ministerial redactions. Mr. Schulte is 20 suggesting otherwise, that there were classified information in 21 that.

22 MR. SCHULTE: I have the documents here --

23 THE COURT: This is the point of the Section 5 notice, 24 is to make it clear what you propose to use and adjudicate 25 whether you can. But if you have it there and it shows what

XM535schC

1 was redacted, I'm certainly happy to take a look at it quickly 2 but I just don't know what is going on here.

3 MR. SCHULTE: I mean it may be, you know, I may be 4 completely mistaken. I thought that whenever I renewed the 5 same objections in the supplemental CIPA 5 my intention or my 6 thought process was all the previous stuff, I can bring any of 7 that to the hearing because it's -- since it has all been 8 previously provided to the Court or the Court has already ruled 9 or reviewed it, my -- perhaps I was mistaken about that, that I 10 could bring any of those materials here to the hearing to 11 basically it review it here.

12 THE COURT: Well, you are not, except that I have 13 adopted all of Judge Crotty's rulings on that with the 14 exception of the witness protection order I am reserving 15 judgment on. So in that regard, you have renewed your request 16 but I am adhering to his ruling. Is there some particular part 17 of the Michael memorandum you wish to use that you were not 18 permitted to use the last time?

19 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. I have the documents here I can 20 give to the Court and the government.

21 THE COURT: Please do.

22 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, I think I see what the 23 confusion is here.

24 There was the memorandum from CIMC that Judge Crotty 25 authorized to be introduced at trial. This is a separate

XM535schC

1 document, this was the [REDACTED] internal 2 assessment on Michael that Judge Crotty ordered us to produce 3 to the defense as Giglio in anticipation of the defense
4 recalling Michael on cross-examination -- which the defense
5 elected not to do. This was never asked to be declassified or 6 introduced in any way so we are talking about two different 7 documents.

8 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. The issue was that this came in 9 the middle of the trial, it should have been produced to the 10 defense before, and Judge Crotty ruled that this was improperly 11 a violation of Brady and so we had to litigate this on the fly 12 in the middle of trial. So my interpretation is this was 13 considered basically part of -- the only reason this stuff 14 didn't come in at trial is because we eventually decided not to 15 recall Michael but I think that the litigation of the relevance 16 of this at trial was basically litigated and that this stuff
17 was ruled to be relevant, we just never were able to recall 18 Michael or go over some of these specific documents.

19 THE COURT: But the point of the Section 5 notice is 20 so that you can put the government and me on notice of what 21 classified documents or information you wish to use at trial so 22 that we can then proceed to litigate the permissibility of 23 that. So, if this was not subject to any Section 5 notice
24 before the first trial and it wasn't part of your Section 5 25 notices before this trial, you have not complied with your

1 obligations under the statute to use this document.

2 MR. SCHULTE: OK. Am I able to move now? Is the 3 Court willing to look at it now or what is the Court willing 4 to --

5 THE COURT: I think, as with the recordings, if you
6 want to file a late Section 5 notice you can do that and then 7 if the government wishes to move on procedural ground to 8 preclude you from using it because it is late or filing to 9 comply with my deadline or on the merits, I will take it up.
10 But, unless you have properly noticed it under Section 5 this 11 is not the way this process is supposed to work and I think you 12 have to frame what you are offering it for so that the 13 government can respond in an appropriate fashion.

14 So the bottom line is it is not ripe for me to 15 consider at this time. If you wish to serve a notice I will 16 take it under advisement whether you can use it and we will go 17 from there, but I don't think it is ripe for me to decide 18 today.

19 The last item on my agenda is the forensic crime
20 scene. I have only quickly reviewed the submissions thus far.
21 There is a threshold procedural question which is whether the 22 government should be given the unredacted version of the 23 defense expert's affidavit. Mr. Schulte, you didn't respond to 24 that in your reply. I am inclined to think that they should 25 get it, number one, because I don't think there is anything

XM535schC

1 particularly earth-shattering behind the redactions that the 2 government probably couldn't figure out on its own, but that is 3 to say I'm not sure it reveals much in the way of defense 4 strategy that wouldn't be obvious; and number two, to the 5 extent that you wish to call your expert you would -- I think 6 the government is correct -- need to disclose it by the 13th 7 anyway. So, in that regard, what's the harm in providing it to 8 the government now to give it meaningful opportunity to 9 respond?

10 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. So I think the issue is that the 11 declaration from the expert is essentially made after he has 12 been able to review -- conduct his examinations and the 13 material that he has found or has, you know, deduced is 14 favorable to the defense. So the issue here is, like -- so 15 this issue happened before where basically the defense had to 16 reveal defense strategy and the expert's proposed test for the 17 government, then the government's expert was able to deduce and 18 find information that it then used against me at trial. So I 19 think the biggest issue here is we don't want to keep repeating 20 that where we keep telling the government here is all the tests 21 that that expert intends to run or here is all the defense 22 strategy and so now give it to your expert to go and conduct 23 these tests yourself or do or find whatever else that is then 24 used against me at trial. So I believe that was the concern, 25 is that he outlines tests that he would perform but we don't

XM535schC

1 necessarily know what the outcome of those tests would be 2 because we are not able to conduct those tests.

3 So basically our belief is that, you know, this is not 4 really relevant to the testimony because he can't even testify 5 about this material yet because we don't even have access to 6 it.

7 THE COURT: But that's the rub. The government says 8 that he does and I think in order to meaningfully respond to 9 his contention that he doesn't, the government has to see what 10 he suggests he can't do with what he has been provided, not to 11 mention you didn't address my point or the government's point 12 that you would be required to disclose the affidavit by the 13 13th in the event that you intend to call him as a witness.
14 So, if that's the case, what's the harm in disclosing it on May 15 3rd?

16 MR. SCHULTE: Yeah, so as -- right.

17 So, the argument that I raised before is relevant in 18 response to your question, basically why this has to be 19 produced May 13th, why not produce it now. But the thing is 20 the expert's testimony would only be about what he can testify 21 about so none of this would actually be included in that 22 because my expert cannot testify about any of this information.
23 All this affidavit is saying is that these are the tests that 24 he would perform but he is not going to testify to the jury, 25 these are tests that I would perform but I couldn't perform so

XM535schC

1 we don't think that those materials would be basically produced
2 pursuant to that expert notice. He needs to be able to conduct 3 the task before he would be able to proffer any testimony that 4 would be given to the government on May 13th.

5 THE COURT: Mr. Denton?

6 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, I think we think it is pretty 7 obvious that an affidavit of an expert submitted in the case is 8 a prior statement on the subject of his testimony and so it 9 would be 26.2. I think, your Honor, to the extent that what 10 might make sense in order to simply avoid this issue is if the 11 Court wants to ask if there are, you know, review the 12 affidavits that we have submitted and see if the Court thinks 13 that you do need to hear from us more on some of the unredacted 14 portions, we would think we would be entitled to a response.
15 To the extent it is not anything earth-shattering, I think we 16 tried to anticipate as much as we could in discussing with the 17 experts what their affidavits should address. It may be that 18 this is a moot point and the defendant can decide what he wants 19 to do on May 13th. I think we are entitled to it but I am also 20 trying to find ways for there to be less to do here.

21 THE COURT: I appreciate that.

22 So let me just turn briefly at least to the merits and 23 I think I would still -- I'm not sure the affidavits 24 accomplished what I hoped they would accomplish which is 25 clarifying the situation because we have a situation where one

XM535schC

1 expert is saying he needs this in order to meaningfully test
2 what the other experts are doing and so forth and the other 3 experts are saying he doesn't and in that sense it's sort of 4 the affidavits have replicated what the parties' briefs already 5 said. Be that as it may, in the government's letter, page 4, 6 it seems that the government is making available some 7 additional information that was not previously made available, 8 namely an unredacted copy of Confluence -- an April 25th 9 Confluence backup on that basis. Mr. Denton, you state that 10 the defense now has access to the exact same material that 11 Mr. Berger used to conduct his analysis. I guess I am trying 12 to pinpoint precisely what Mr. Berger and Mr. Leedom had and 13 used that was not made available to the defense. Representing 14 that whatever Mr. Berger has reviewed has been made available 15 to the defense, you didn't make that same disclosure with 16 respect to Mr. Leedom, and what is the daylight there.

17 MR. DENTON: Again, your Honor, some of that is the 18 function of the fact that Mr. Berger performed the more discrete 19 tasks with respect to the timing analysis on Stash and 20 Confluence. He did a lot of unclassified work on the 21 defendant's home computer that is not really at issue, I think.
22 So again, Mr. Berger's expert report specifically identified 23 the sources of data for his conclusions.

24 Mr. Leedom was not simply just an expert witness, he 25 was part of the investigative team, he was part of the effort

XM535schC

1 to identify and produce material for discovery. So insofar as 2 the defendant has averred that Mr. Leedom had access to 3 everything the government did, that is by and large true.
4 That's separate and apart from the question of what did he have 5 access to that was relevant and has formed any part of his 6 conclusions that was produced to the defendant. All of that 7 has been produced -- and then some -- in responses to requests 8 from the defendant, Mr. Leedom's own understanding of what 9 might be relevant, a meeting with the defense expert to discuss 10 what material was available and the defendant's expert would 11 like.

12 So, again, I think the question of what Mr. Leedom had 13 access to versus what is the corpus of relevant information are 14 two different questions and we are confident that the entire 15 corpus of relevant information has been produced.

16 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte, let me turn to you and kind 17 of in particular I have two concerns. One is the way that it 18 was left with Judge Crotty was denial of your request for 19 access to the full forensic crime scene but without prejudice 20 to a more tailored request, quote unquote. I am not sure that 21 you have satisfied that condition and certainly don't think 22 that Dr. Bellovin's affidavit comes anywhere near it because 23 his affidavit is basically I need all where I have nothing so 24 it is not tailored at all.

25 Number two, and slightly relatedly, it seems to me

XM535schC

1 that there are many steps that you and/or your expert could 2 have taken to do more of what has been available and that you 3 haven't availed yourself of to the full extent of what's been 4 provided, to wit, number one, Mr. Leedom states in his 5 affidavit that he made himself available to your expert to 6 discuss what he did, what he reviewed, and what would be 7 available and made clear that he would be available thereafter 8 but was never requested to speak with him again; and number 9 two, there doesn't seem to be any dispute that a substantial 10 amount of information was made available to Dr. Bellovin onsite 11 at the CIA and the stand-alone laptop and that he basically 12 went there on one day and spent very little time reviewing it.

13 Now, I understand that he would like to review it, for 14 instance, with access to the Internet and what have you, but 15 the fact that it is not under ideal circumstances or conditions 16 what he would want doesn't necessarily mean that you have been 17 deprived of a meaningful opportunity to review it.

18 So, I guess I have two questions or concerns. One is 19 that you are not making any more of a tailored request before 20 the first trial; and number two, that there is plenty more that 21 could be done with what has been made available and you and 22 your expert haven't availed yourself of it, why should I give 23 you everything when you haven't even availed yourself of what 24 has been made available?

25 MR. SCHULTE: Yes.

XM535schC

1 So, the first thing that the government said about the 2 timing analysis I think is incorrect and this comes into play
3 about the more tailored request. So, as the government says, 4 they conducted a timing analysis on Confluence and Stash. They 5 now say that they're going to give us the Confluence backup but 6 not the Stash backup. So, the Stash backup is the more
7 important data. This information is the more sensitive data, 8 this is the data that the more serious charges stem from. So 9 as with regard to more tailored requests, this is specifically 10 the more tailored request, the access to Confluence and Stash
11 backups that were used in the timing analysis that Mr. Berger 12 referenced had to use for his timing analysis. So the fact 13 that they're now agreeing to provide the Confluence we will 14 wait and see what is actually provided but that's, like I said, 15 is a step in the right direction. The other thing is why is 16 there no Stash? Why can we not conduct a timely analysis on 17 Stash? So that's the first thing. The second thing regarding 18 the forensic crime scene, as the Court recalls the, motion made 19 was --

20 THE COURT: Can I stop you with the first thing 21 because my understanding, this is from paragraph 8 of the 22 Leedom declaration, is that the stand-alone laptop contains 23 unredacted copies of the Stash repositories, unredacted copies 24 of all Stash documents, all Stash commit logs for all projects 25 redacting only the user names of who committed or saved

1 particular versions and so forth.

2 So, am I missing something? It seems like that was 3 disclosed.

4 MR. SCHULTE: So, I mean, it hasn't been produced to 5 us in discovery so I can access it as well. And as far as the 6 redactions to the Stash backup, we don't really know -- 7 Dr. Bellovin, all he knows is that information has been 8 redacted from it because he didn't have a bit for bit copy of 9 it so he can't testify as to the integrity of the data, what 10 has or has not been redacted. So, the government's expert says 11 only certain things have been redacted, but the biggest point 12 is I have a right to review this material. There is nothing in 13 Rule 16 that says the government can only produce it to my 14 expert in some location way far out of the jurisdiction. I 15 have a right to review this material, this is material the 16 government is saying that I stole. I am representing myself 17 and even as a defendant I have a right to review this 18 information. So, the biggest thing is it is not appropriate, 19 there is no case law that the government cites that says this 20 is not appropriate, and there is no reason that the government 21 can't produce this in the SCIF which the whole point of the 22 SCIF is for classified discovery production.

23 THE COURT: Well, that's a different argument than you 24 haven't been provided this. I think you, by meaning the 25 defense team, you have been provided it, it is just a question

1 of whether it has been provided to you in the SCIF here as 2 opposed to made available to you which is I think all that 3 Rule 16 actually requires.

4 But Mr. Denton, now that we have zeroed in on that 5 issue, do you wish to address that? I think the gravamen of 6 the claim is that it doesn't suffice to make it available to 7 Dr. Bellovin in Langley, it has to be provided in the SCIF here
8 so that Mr. Schulte, who is representing himself, can review it 9 himself.

10 MR. DENTON: So your Honor, think it is helpful to 11 talk about what Stash is. Stash involves the actual 12 repositories of source code for CIA cyber tools, and so that is 13 not something that can be handled just anywhere. It is not 14 something that can be handled on regular SCIF network 15 computers. It is put on an air gap stand-alone laptop because 16 of the sensitivity of how this has to be handled. I think in 17 many cases where defendant's expert is reviewing sensitive 18 material that is not classified, access for the expert and not 19 the defendant himself is the rule, not the exception. The 20 defendant doesn't typically get the sample of cocaine or the 21 gun that an expert needs to sign out to go run his tests on.

22 I think this is a standard course. I think the 23 government has made it available to the defense and to the 24 defendant's expert. Where we have been able to we made as much 25 as we can available in the SCIF. So, again, the April 25th

XM535schC

1 Confluence backup the defendant has had the copy of that that 2 was redacted consistent with the Court's Section 4 rulings. We 3 are just now going a step further and also making an unredacted
4 complete copy available to Dr. Bellovin.

5 Stash we can't really do that for because the Court's 6 Section 4 ruling specifically approved the deletion of source 7 code from the discovery that was produced to the defendant. We 8 are making as much available as we can and making fulsome an 9 opportunity for testing as best we can. We will let 10 Dr. Bellovin come and take a look at it again but it has to be 11 in circumstances that are suitable for control of the 12 sensitivity of the information.

13 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte?

14 MR. SCHULTE: So that's not -- the legal standard is 15 not whatever the CIA determines that's the way it's supposed to 16 be provided. I mean, this is a clear case that the defendant 17 has to show certain relevance, materiality, and this 18 information, pursuant to CIPA, the whole point of CIPA is it is 19 supposed to be produced for use by the defendant so this is -- 20 so the government says --

21 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte, again, the gravamen of your 22 argument is that it has to be produced for you to use in the 23 SCIF here. It is being made available to the defense, which is 24 I think in compliance with Rule 16 by virtue of the fact that 25 your expert has it available to him, albeit not in the SCIF

XM535schC

1 here. I mean, child pornography can't be just disclosed to 2 defense counsel but if it is made available for inspection in 3 the FBI, you know, then that suffices. Are you aware of any 4 authority that stands for the proposition that a defendant who 5 represents himself, that he has to be taken out of jail and 6 taken to the cocaine to see that it's cocaine when it is made 7 available to his expert? I would think not.

8 MR. SCHULTE: I think one of the biggest differences
9 here, it is not just that I am representing myself but as a 10 defendant with expertise in this matter, I want to be able to 11 assist. I have --

12 THE COURT: I understand, but when you went pro se you
13 were explicitly advised by Judge Crotty that by going pro se 14 you were not going to be relieved of the restrictions that were 15 imposed upon you by virtue of being incarcerated and being 16 under SAMs. It wasn't a backdoor way of basically loosening 17 the restrictions imposed on you and you said I understand and I 18 want to proceed pro se anyway.

19 MR. SCHULTE: This has nothing to do with that.

20 THE COURT: Well, it does, because you are suggesting 21 that by virtue of having gone pro se you are entitled to be 22 taken to Langley to engage in this review yourself or if that's 23 not an option, that it has to be brought to you and the point 24 is, like, there are legitimate concerns that the CIA has about 25 bringing it here. If those are legitimate but it is being made

1 available to the defense through your expert in a different
2 location, the fact that you were incarcerated and under SAMs 3 and aren't going to the CIA to review it doesn't strike me as 4 raising a problem if it is available to your expert.

5 MR. SCHULTE: No, I'm not saying the reason should be 6 that I am representing myself. I said regardless of the fact I
7 am representing myself, I am a defendant with expertise -- 8 technical expertise in this matter. I mean, if a defendant is 9 a forensic science expert and he wants to be able to conduct 10 his own tests, I think he has a right to do that. As someone 11 with the expertise that I have, I am not -- I don't have to 12 just say, OK, let me have my -- hire an expert and let him do 13 it. I want to be able to check the material myself, I want to 14 be able to conduct the test myself. I think I have a right to 15 do that.

16 THE COURT: Do you have any cases that support that 17 proposition?

18 MR. SCHULTE: I think it should be the opposite, the 19 government needs to provide cases to suggest that this material 20 can be produced in this manner, that it doesn't have to be 21 provided to the District Court where the criminal proceedings 22 are and it doesn't have to provide materials to the defendant 23 and it can restrict the environment and provide whatever other 24 restrictions it has.

25 I think the government needs to provide precedent that

XM535schC

1 shows any of this is lawful. I don't think any other case has 2 been like this where the discovery has been refused to be 3 provided to the defendant or even in the jurisdiction of the 4 district court where the criminal proceedings are ongoing.

5 THE COURT: Earlier you said that was point number 6 one. What was point number two you wanted to make?

7 MR. SCHULTE: Regarding -- so there is the Stash and 8 Confluence backups and then there is the other server. So are 9 we proceeding on to those servers or still talking about the 10 backups here?

11 THE COURT: You said I have two points, one is that 12 they're talking about Confluence but Stash is more important; 13 we have addressed that. I am asking what your second point was 14 that you wanted to make.

15 MR. SCHULTE: So regarding the Confluence and Stash 16 issue, I think the other unfortunate thing is to note that the 17 redactions -- if the government is removing source code or 18 providing other redactions to the Stash itself, the experts 19 can't really conduct a timing analysis and can't even confirm 20 whether the materials released by Wikileaks are in fact derived 21 from this backup or from this certain date. So, I think the 22 other major issue is that the document, the Stash backup must 23 be provided without redactions so that -- a bit for bit copy so 24 that the witness can confirm that this is the actual data that 25 the government alleges was stolen from the CIA. If whatever

1 redactions that they propose to do really affect the integrity
2 of the data so that the expert can't really confidently come up 3 and testify about it because he doesn't have a full copy of the 4 actual forensic data to be able to testify. So, that was the 5 other issue, is that if they provide the Stash backup they 6 should provide it completely unredacted so that the expert can 7 actually testify that this is the data that the government 8 alleges was stolen and he conducts his analysis.

9 THE COURT: Thank you. I will reserve judgment on 10 that issue, too, for the moment.

11 That exhausts the issues I needed to raise. Anything 12 else from the government, Mr. Denton?

13 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor; one thing.

14 With regard to the witness protections and witness 15 issues more generally, we will obviously put in the letter -- 16 we will not keep everybody in suspense -- the government 17 intends to call three CIA witnesses at the next trial. They 18 were all people who testified at the previous one. [REDACTED]

19 [REDACTED]
20 [REDACTED] We will lay all of that 21 out.

22 The point that we wanted to flag for the Court is that 23 we understand that the defendant has subpoenaed at least 40 CIA 24 officers who have reported receiving subpoenas. We would 25 expect that witness protections would implicate quite a lot of

1 them. We also noted this in our motions in limine because this 2 happened the last time before the last trial: The defendant
3 subpoenaed, I think, close to 70 witnesses. We would expect -- 4 again, we are still figuring out what the universe is that 5 there would be serious questions about the presentation of 6 cumulative evidence, and we just wanted to flag it for Court 7 because included among defendant's subpoenaed witnesses are a 8 significant number of [REDACTED] covert officers and within 9 that subset a number of [REDACTED], and 10 so making arrangements [REDACTED] 11 [REDACTED] doing that in a way that is sufficiently secure as to 12 protect their cover and their ongoing work, is a little bit of 13 something that takes some doing. And so, it's an issue that I 14 think we are trying to figure out the best way to raise with 15 the Court, in advance of the trial, so that we have enough 16 notice on how this is all going to be handled to make those 17 decisions.

18 I will note that there is at least one witness that 19 the defendant moved to quash the subpoena as to the last time
20 and preclude her testimony. [REDACTED]
21 [REDACTED]

22 THE COURT: You said the defendant moved to quash.

23 MR. DENTON: No, the government moved to quash or to 24 preclude her testimony. Judge Crotty did not rule on that 25 because the defense withdrew the subpoena. He did rule on the

1 motion to quash a subpoena to Secretary Pompeo. But, we expect 2 that we will certainly move to quash the subpoena as to that 3 one woman and may, as to others, but like I said, we are 4 talking about more than 40 people here so figuring out how we 5 are going to resolve this, again, is something I think we need 6 to think about in advance.

7 MR. SCHULTE: Judge, just one thing, is that when we 8 finish talking about the backups, like I said, I still had 9 another discussion about the remaining server and the motion 10 for preclusion so that was still another issue that we didn't 11 get an opportunity to address the Court on, so I was hoping to 12 be able to address that issue.

13 THE COURT: OK. Well, I said is there anything else,
14 I was going ask you the same, so you can now address that in a 15 moment but before we get there, I guess Mr. Denton, what are 16 you asking me to do with respect to the defense witnesses? It 17 doesn't seem like it is ripe for me to involve myself in. I 18 confess I haven't bothered to look at the motions in limine 19 yet, number one, because I have enough on my plate; number two, 20 the responses aren't in so I don't know whether and to what 21 extent you have addressed it in there but it seems like there 22 has to be an application and I'm not sure there is one at the 23 moment.

24 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, I think it is a little bit of 25 a challenging circumstance.

XM535schC

1 We noted in the motion in limine that this was an 2 issue that came up before the last trial. We provided a sort 3 of precis of the relevant law and the defendant's obligation to 4 make the necessary showing and the Court's powers with respect 5 to cumulative evidence. I think, again, with respect to the 6 one witness we can certainly say we will file a separate 7 application to preclude her testimony yet again. With respect
8 to the others, I think again, it is a challenging situation 9 because I don't think the government is saying that all of 10 these witnesses should be precluded in toto. I think that 40 11 is overkill and it is hard to imagine 40 witnesses each with 12 relevant non-cumulative testimony.

13 So, on the one hand I understand it is the 14 government's burden to move to preclude them. On the other 15 hand, I think our application is basically let's come to a 16 reasonable ground on how many people the defendant should call 17 here and do so in enough time in advance of trial that we can 18 work with the FBI and the CIA to make arrangements for people's 19 safe arrival in New York.

20 THE COURT: So maybe it makes sense to impose a 21 deadline by which the defendant needs to identify which of 22 those 40 witnesses he actually intends to call so that we can 23 know what, if anything, needs to be litigated.

24 MR. DENTON: That makes sense, your Honor, to us.

25 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte?

1 MS. SHROFF: Your Honor, may I have a second with him?

2 THE COURT: You may.

3 MS. SHROFF: Thank you.

4 MR. SCHULTE: So I think the issue here is the same 5 issue that we had at the first trial where due to the 6 government's restrictions on contacting the witnesses, this is 7 not a typical case where the attorneys can reach out, contact 8 the witnesses, determine specifically what is or what the 9 witnesses would testify, confirm, based on FBI 302s and other 10 information. So because the restrictions imposed by the 11 government, we are not really able to begin this process of 12 whittling down or talking to the witnesses to determine who is 13 going to testify specifically to what or if the testimony is 14 helpful. So due to these restrictions we are not really able 15 to do that.

16 THE COURT: I think the only restriction is that you
17 need to go through the CISO to contact any of the CIA witnesses 18 and request that they be willing to speak to you. They're not 19 obligated to speak to you. A subpoena doesn't obligate them to 20 speak to you, a subpoena requires them to show up in court.
21 But, you know, at some point you are going to have to decide 22 whether you intend to enforce the subpoena without regard to 23 what the witness would say or not.

24 MR. SCHULTE: Right. For the first trial, that's 25 where my attorneys were -- when the witnesses came in that were

XM535schC

1 subpoenaed, they would sit down and speak with them then, right 2 before we were going to begin calling our case and calling the 3 witnesses to testify. So that was the strategy for the first 4 trial that was restricted because of the communication of the 5 CIA.

6 The CIA, basically, is not allowing the witnesses to 7 communicate with us. As we have said on the record before and 8 Ms. Shroff has said -- she can talk about it again -- but the 9 CIA discovered that certain witnesses were talking with 10 Ms. Shroff, they were removed so she could not speak with them 11 even though they agreed to speak with her. So, the witnesses
12 are not, due to the CIA's issues, are not able to really speak 13 with us and so we will have to do what we did at the first 14 trial which is have counsel speak with them when they come in 15 for testimony at trial.

16 We do have -- the basis for calling these witnesses is 17 based off 302s where they have made the statements that they've 18 made from 302s and other documents, so the defense spent a long 19 time going through the witnesses to come up with the set that 20 we think that provide substantive, relevant testimony, but then 21 from there we weren't really able to pick out the best ones for 22 use at trial so that was why we relied on that strategy for the 23 first trial.

24 THE COURT: Mr. Denton?

25 MR. DENTON: So again, your Honor, what happened the

XM535schC

1 last time, the defendant shotgunned out 70 subpoenas, we 2 objected to them. The defense ultimately, in order to moot our 3 objection, agreed to narrow the list down to I think it was 12 4 people that we brought to New York. We, again, agreed to 5 convey the defense's request to speak with those witnesses.
6 The defense spoke with I don't think all of them but a 7 significant number of them and elected to call none of them. I 8 think what we are looking to do is avoid a situation in which 9 we have to bring 40 people-plus, including any number of people
10 that have to be [REDACTED]
11 [REDACTED] just for the defendant to see.

12 I think it is entirely reasonable to set some date to 13 narrow the list down. We are not saying it has to be a final 14 list, I think we can work with a reasonable number and let the 15 defendant make his decisions at game time about who among that 16 he wants to call but, again, I struggle to see how there would 17 be 40 witnesses in almost any trial that would not have some 18 cumulative effect. So, doing a little bit of that work in 19 advance, makes sense to us.

20 THE COURT: Yes, Ms. Shroff?

21 MS. SHROFF: Your Honor, in an average case if there
22 was a witness and there were 40 of them, Mr. Schulte's 23 investigator would go talk to the 40. The lawyer might go to 24 the 40, some other lawyers might go to the other 40. We would 25 whittle down the toilet number from 40 to 4. The problem here

XM535schC

1 is our investigator can't go to the 40 so the investigator
2 can't come back to Mr. Schulte and say out of the 40, only 3 three are worthwhile but these three are the ones that are 4 worthwhile. So the reason he has to -- and I don't think 5 shotgun is the correct word to use -- but the reason that he 6 asked to speak to all 40 is because that is the only way he can 7 decide which of the 40 are the best witnesses for him which is 8 what happened at the last trial. We didn't subpoena them
9 because we wanted to. We offered to sit down and talk to them.
10 We offered to go to the CIA; Mr. Zass, myself, the 11 investigators. We offered. We don't want to inconvenience 12 anybody. And if they want us to do that again, they can make 13 the 40 available in D.C. if he wasn't going pro se.

14 So the reason this approach is awkward has nothing to 15 do with the defense being unaccommodating. If they want to 16 make us go to them we are happy to go to them but there is no 17 other way to whittle down the number because we don't know what 18 they would say because we are not able to communicate with them 19 and that is why we asked to do the outreach, so that in the 20 outreach we would have whittled down the number. But, we were 21 not able to.

22 So I just wanted to make sure and that's -- that what 23 happened at the last trial.

24 THE COURT: Can we just clarify? Unless I am 25 misremembering, the provisions in the protective order don't

XM535schC

1 prevent from you conducting outreach, they just require that 2 you go through the CISO to make the request. So, if the 3 witness says I don't want to talk to them, then you are stuck 4 with that and you don't get to make a personal appeal but you
5 weren't prevented from making outreach. Am I wrong?

6 MS. SHROFF: We were prevented from making outreach 7 because the protective order said that we can't reach out to 8 them directly.

9 THE COURT: Directly.

10 MR. SCHULTE: Right.

11 THE COURT: But you can out reach to them through the 12 CISO. In other words, is there any witness you have not been 13 able to contact and say we are interested in speaking to you, 14 are you willing to conduct an interview with us?

15 MS. SHROFF: I have, but that is my point -- that a 16 CISO seeking for Mr. Schulte is very different than his 17 advocate speaking for Mr. Schulte. And, the outreach is the 18 most important part. The first time you knock on a witness' 19 door it is important how you convey your need to have that 20 person testify for your client. That is an important aspect.
21 I understand that it superseded in this case because of CIPA 22 and whatever other issues but that was my point, is that the 23 outreach itself sort of ties his hands and I don't even know, 24 because I haven't fully finished the responses, I don't think 25 we have 40 yeses. So I am not really sure we are even at the

KM535schC

1 stage where Mr. Denton is saying we are at 40 and we are going 2 to waste the time of 40 people. But he has no other way to 3 decide which one of the 40 to call because he simply can't.
4 What is he supposed to do?

5 THE COURT: Well, for starters, he is supposed to 6 proffer what the witnesses could testify to as a way of 7 whittling down to some non-cumulative number of witnesses. He 8 is not going to call 40 witnesses -- or I think it is very 9 unlikely that he will be permitted to call 40 witnesses so in 10 that regard, whittling it down to some subset of 40 which would 11 not be cumulative as to which he might be entitled to enforce a 12 subpoena does seem like an appropriate course but that does 13 seem to me to warrant setting a deadline to identify which of 14 the 40 he really genuinely wants.

15 MS. SHROFF: But he has to talk to the 40 to figure 16 out which of the 40 he wants because no. 39 may be a better 17 witness than no. 24. The only way he can figure that out is to 18 talk to 24 and 39. Who is a better witness for you, the only 19 way to know is to talk to the witness.

20 THE COURT: But, Ms. Shroff, he can't say I'm serving 21 a subpoena on every employee from the CIA and I expect the 22 government to arrange for them -- every single one of them -- 23 [REDACTED], to be brought to the 24 court house on the first day of trial so I can go through and 25 talk to every employee of the CIA to determine who would be my

XM535schC

1 best witnesses. That's not the way the system works.

2 MS. SHROFF: But in this particular case he has no
3 other option. What is the option?

4 THE COURT: The option is to identify a reasonable 5 number of witnesses who are likely to be called.

6 MS. SHROFF: Right, but based on what, other than a 7 paper name.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 Well, Mr. Denton, I am not sure how to proceed here 10 except to say maybe you should go ahead and make a motion and 11 if you want to argue that the 40 are cumulative and then he can 12 respond why they're not cumulative and/or have to identify 13 which of them he really wants now then I will adjudicate that 14 but I'm not sure how else to proceed.

15 MR. DENTON: That's fine, your Honor; we can make an 16 application.

17 Like I said, our application is not that he doesn't 18 get to call any witnesses, I think it is more an application to 19 reach a reasonable scope so we will figure out the best way to 20 do that and file something.

21 THE COURT: And I would encourage you, to the extent 22 that there are communications between the two sides these days 23 to talk to one another about it and try to reach an 24 accommodation. I agree Mr. Schulte should be entitled to call 25 subpoenaed witness as any criminal defendant is, but it doesn't

XM535schC

1 allow him, for instance, to serve a subpoena on every employee
2 of the CIA. Something between and that and zero seems 3 appropriate because this is really a process question and when 4 he needs to identify which witnesses he wants to call and to 5 allow the government a reasonable amount of time to make the 6 necessary arrangements. I would add, just not [REDACTED] 7 [REDACTED], but I don't know what the COVID restrictions are 8 with respect to [REDACTED] these days and coming into 9 the court house but that is something you will also need to 10 keep in mind, that somebody who is subpoenaed [REDACTED] 11 cannot come into the court house and testify when they are 12 brought [REDACTED]

13 Ms. Shroff?

14 MS. SHROFF: Your Honor, we would ask the CIA to 15 provide to Mr. Schulte the exact language they used to e-mail 16 each of the people subpoenaed. They declined so we asked, 17 through the CISO, that the material be preserved in case 18 Mr. Schulte wants to pursue an appeal based on that. And we 19 just ask the Court to receive that information in camera 20 because it won't be shared with us.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 Mr. Denton, why shouldn't it be shared with them?

23 MR. DENTON: I honestly don't know, your Honor. This 24 is all happening with the wall folks, this is not something 25 that we have been involved in so I'm really not sure what is

XM535schC

1 going on with that. So, I can ask and try find out what is 2 going on.

3 THE COURT: Why don't you ask and try to find out
4 what's going on. Maybe everybody should be able to see it.
5 And to the extent Mr. Schulte takes issue with it, he can raise 6 it and regardless, I would think it should be made part of the 7 record in some fashion or form. So, see if you can sort that 8 out.

9 MR. DENTON: I do want to say, your Honor, we have 10 been very careful to observe the wall limitations here. When I 11 say the number 40, that is the number of people who were 12 provided with the subpoena and then, in turn, reported having 13 received it pursuant to the regulations. That's the only way 14 we are getting this. We have been very careful about the wall 15 procedures.

16 THE COURT: Understood.

17 All right, Mr. Schulte. You had one other issue you 18 wanted to raise before we conclude?

19 MR. SCHULTE: Yes. Well, just a continuation of the 20 expert affidavits and the servers.

21 So we discussed the Stash and Confluence backups 22 already, we have already addressed that issue, but the other 23 big issue was the servers, the ESXi server, the Episode 1
24 server, and the CIA work station.

25 So, the big issue here is that it is not only -- the

XM535schC

1 original motion was not only to produce certain servers but it 2 was also to preclude the government, in the case that we are 3 not able to review them. So the biggest issue here is 4 Mr. Leedom's testimony. I know the government said of course 5 he had access to everything because he was part of the 6 investigation team. So the issue here is Mr. Leedom picked 7 out -- he went through, conducted forensic examinations of the 8 servers, and based on those examinations he picked out the 9 files that he said were relevant or he picked out the data that 10 he thinks was relevant and he picked out -- he came up with 11 this timeline of events and had a huge PowerPoint presentation 12 about this.

13 The biggest issue here is the defendant is, 14 essentially, not able to call any expert because the 15 information that he picks out as relevant, just like when it
16 comes to forensic science, the expert can be mistaken or as I 17 have stated in here either -- could even deliberately exclude 18 information or kick out information or we have no idea how he 19 is conducting it which is why, when it comes to forensic 20 science, the defense is allowed to conduct his own analysis on 21 the fingerprints, the DNA, or whatever.

22 So, digital forensics is the same when it comes to 23 forensic science. We don't know what Mr. Leedom missed. He 24 doesn't have a Ph.D, he doesn't have the credentials that 25 Dr. Bellovin has, so Dr. Bellovin should be allowed to review

XM535schC

1 the servers at the crux of this issue here that the government 2 says this is their case-in-chief, they are saying I have these 3 servers, it is the main server with the Computer Fraud and Use
4 Act charges, the main servers with the Espionage Act. And so, 5 our expert wants the ability to conduct the same tests that 6 Mr. Leedom did and to rely upon his same expertise and to rely 7 upon his knowledge from his extensive years of experience in 8 this field to see -- to be able to conduct a similar 9 examination and I think the law is clear when it comes to 10 forensic science that this is how it should be conducted and I 11 think digital forensic is not any different at all than the 12 forensic science.

13 THE COURT: Mr. Schulte, you are sort of repeating 14 yourself and repeating arguments that you have already made, 15 either both in writing or orally. I understood you to be 16 trying to raise or discuss a narrower point which is the point 17 you make on page 5 of your reply, that my CIA work station, the 18 ESXi server and the FS-01 server, that the government's 19 response didn't address those.

20 Is that the argument that you were trying to make?

21 MR. SCHULTE: You are talking about in the reply that 22 I -- regarding the affidavits?

23 THE COURT: Yes; that you filed yesterday.

24 In other words, I get your argument. I understand in 25 your expert's affidavit makes the case for why complete access

XM535schC

1 to the full mirror image or forensic image or whatever terms
2 should be used is necessary. I get it. Maybe I will agree
3 with you, maybe I won't agree with you. I get that. But you 4 don't need to repeat the argument. I understood you to be 5 making narrower point that hadn't been made.

6 MR. SCHULTE: We never discussed the server, we only 7 discussed the two backups so I basically wanted to touch base 8 on this orally and to say that, essentially, without this, I 9 don't know how the Court will rule one way or the other but my 10 expert is either, without access to this can either only not 11 testify at all or he can only testify that he wasn't provided 12 the material so he was not able to conduct any test. So I 13 don't know how the jury is going to perceive that but I just 14 wanted to be clear that I am basically forced that I can't 15 really have an expert testify at all if that is the case.

16 THE COURT: What is the "this" is the point. We have 17 discussed Stash and Confluence. I get that. The "this" is?

18 MR. SCHULTE: The three servers.

19 THE COURT: CIA work station, FS-01, and ESXi?

20 MR. SCHULTE: Correct.

21 THE COURT: Mr. Denton?

22 MR. DENTON: Your Honor, that's the precise request 23 that Judge Crotty denied, in fact it is broader than the 24 request that Judge Crotty denied. Judge Crotty denied the 25 request for the entirety of his CIA work station and the ESXi

XM535schC

1 server. The government's affidavits and letter do address
2 these, this is the bulk of Mr. Leedom's affidavit about log 3 files and identifying various parts of these servers. There is 4 a little terminological inexactitude, the FS-01 is also called 5 the NetApp, things like that. But I think at the end of the 6 day, like I said, this is just the request that Judge Crotty 7 denied already.

8 THE COURT: And denied at?

9 MR. SCHULTE: I think --

10 THE COURT: Docket entry 124 and 514?

11 MR. DENTON: Yes, your Honor.

12 MR. SCHULTE: The issue, I think originally it was a 13 request for DevLAN was the request. So this is not a request 14 for DevLAN, this is a request for three specific servers. In 15 addition, the point is that there was an additional argument
16 made that the government should then be precluded if the Court 17 is going to agree that the material is too classified to 18 present to the defense that the argument is, well, the 19 government should be precluded from relying on that same 20 testimony or evidence that was not provided to the defense.

21 THE COURT: OK. I get that and that's the motion that 22 you made and it is under advisement.

23 Mr. Denton, is there anything else you want to say on 24 that score?

25 MR. DENTON: No, your Honor. I think Docket entry 514

XM535schC

1 has some discussion about the relationship between the earlier 2 request for all of DevLAN and requests for these three servers 3 in particular.

4 THE COURT: All right. I will take a look at that.

5 Anything else, Mr. Schulte?

6 MR. SCHULTE: I don't think so, no.

7 THE COURT: So, I have made a couple rulings,
8 otherwise I will take the other items under advisement and tell 9 you how I am proceeding, whether that is a definitive decision, 10 whether we need to have further hearings under 6(c) or 11 otherwise. I just need to figure out where I stand on these 12 things and we will go from there. I have plenty of work to do, 13 you have plenty of work to do, and we will go from there.

14 Thank you very much. Thank you for your patience.
15 Have a good day.
